War; just dirty, miserable mess

Ex-German pilot plans no celebration, recalls horrors, misery of war

CASTRO VALLEY (AP) — Paul Rhodes is one World War I veteran who planned no celebration of today's 57th anniversary of the armistice.

He fought on the other side and recalls the war as "a dirty, miserable thing."

Rhodes, 79, was a lieutenant in the German air force and says he shot down three Allied planes — two French and one Russian.

He said in an interview that when he heard of the war's end, he felt disappointment but "kneeled down and thanked God it was over. The whole thing was a mess."

Rhodes, now a U.S. citizen, is a retired winemaker and member of the school and hospital boards in this Northern California community.

Noting that motion pictures often have glamorized World War I air combat, Rhodes said:

"But in films you don't know about the stink of corpses, the bugs and the lice and fleas, and how after the planes went down in flames and crashed with the fellows in them looking like roast chickens.

"For me the war was a dirty, miserable thing."

Rhodes said he did not like reminiscing about the past because "life is so short that you really have to make the most of it. Because when you think about it, we did so many things that are foolish."

As an 18-year-old and oldest son in his family, Rhodes enlisted in Germany's armed forces in August 1914.

"It was drilled into us — there was no doubt, everybody was patriotic and volunteered immediately," Rhodes said. "The Fatherland was in danger and we had to protect it. There was no trying to evade anything like we had with our last war in Vietnam."

U.N. Zionism vote angers Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Passage of a resolution by the United Nations General Assembly equating Zionism to racism has unleashed a torrent of congressional criticism.

The vote Monday was 75 to 35, with 32 nations abstaining. Passage came despite the U.S. Congress' adoption of a measure condemning the anti-Israel resolution.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., reacted curtly, "It's most unfortunate. Congress has expressed its views in a resolution passed a week ago. And that's about it."

Other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee also condemned the vote. Sen. Henry A. Jackson, D-Wash., said Congress should "examine means by which we can respond to the vote ... in light of the foreign aid bills coming up."

Jackson, a long-time supporter of Israel, said the resolution employed "the Big Lie technique.... If you make the lie big enough, people are apt to believe it."

He added, "I thought (the U.N.) had hit a new low when it allowed (Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasir) Arafat to appear in that temple of peace and justice with a pistol on his hip. But I was wrong, this is a new low."

Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., called the vote "an irresponsible action and a victory for no one." Case said the vote "can only set back efforts for a peaceful settlement in the Middle East" and added that countries voting for it "responded to the threat of oil blackmail."

A fourth member of the Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the vote "compromised the principles on which the United Nations was founded.... And it once again brings racism back as a method of statecraft.

"But even this action by the General Assembly cannot damage the heritage of the Israeli people which has endured for over 2,000 years."

Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N., said the resolution "should not be allowed to pass unnoticed."

Rep. Morris K. Udall, DAriz., said, "I can only deplore this unfortunate and untimely action by the General Assembly. The consequences of the vote may well be a full reappraisal of the United States' participation and its role in funding the U.N."

He added, "Zionism is not to be equated with racism. The movement by a people to search for and build a homeland is not a racist act."

Udall said the U.N. action "is not only deplorable, it indicates a disturbing and negative trend at the U.N. which must be resisted. A resistance that ought to include the political and economic leverage possessed by the United States."

The State Department declined comment on the vote, referring inquiries to the statements of Daniel P.Moynihan, chief U.S. delegate to the world organization.

Moynihan, who cast America's vote against the resolution, told the 143-nation assembly, "A great evil has been loosed upon the world. The abomination of anti-Semitism has been given the appearance of international sanction."

Moynihan, in a fiery and angry speech to the assembly, said the vote "granted symbolic amnesty, and more, to the murderers of six million European Jews" during World War II.

The United States "does not acknowledge, will not abide by, never will acquiesce in this infamous act," he said.

U.S. Delegate Clarence Mitchell said "very punitive action" by Congress was possible as a result of the vote. Congress can withhold approval of the approximately 25 per cent of the U.N. budget contributed by the United States.

The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a Washington based organization headed by Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, issued a statement calling the resolution "an appalling act" and "a grave setback for all who work for equality."

The conference said passage will "injure the U.N. in the eyes of Americans as a forum for dealing seriously and responsibly with the world's problems."

The Bnai B'rith called on the U.S. government to suspend financial support for the United Nations "until the General Assembly breaks the stranglehold of the Arab bloc and undoes the shameful action."

David M. Blumberg, the organization's president, issued a statement saying the U.N. "has lost every vestige of credibility and has forefeited any authority it had as a world body devoted to peace and justice."

City will open mall to autos

Pomona City Council Monday approved an experimental plan that will put vehicle traffic back on a portion of the Pomona Mall for the first time in 13 years.

The plan, approved by a 4-1 vote, will allow one-way traffic westbound from Garey Avenue to Park Avenue at 15 miles per hour.

No parking will be allowed.

Details of the plan, such as turns allowed off Garey Avenue, have not been finalized.

Frank Carr, vice president of United California Bank, spoke on behalf of the plan, which has the endorsement of the Central Business District and the Pomona Mall West property owners.

He suggested that the experimental plan begin around Thanksgiving.

Mayor Ray Lepire voted against the plan, citing potential traffic problems he had discussed with Police Chief F. P. Wallick.

The Pomona Mall, formerly Second Street, has been closed to traffic since the mall was constructed in 1962.

Morton target of contempt citation vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee voted today to cite Commerce Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton for contempt of Congress for refusing to turn over the names of U.S. companies asked by the Arabs to participate in a boycott of Israel.

By a vote of 10 to 5, the House interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee recommended that the full committee bring contempt action against Morton.

Morton has refused since late July to provide the panel with the company names.

In refusing again to provide the subpoenaed documents, Morton reiterated today that the attorney general has advised that the material could be withheld.

Morton told the subcommittee in a prepared statement he is personally opposed to the Arab boycott, but believes that the United States can better counter it through more quiet methods than congressional exposure.

Kidnap plot bared

Guard placed around Gov. Brown's sister

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Symbionese Liberation Army sympathizers planned to kidnap the governor's sister in a plot to gain freedom for imprisoned SLA "soldiers," law enforcement sources say.

Kathleen Brown Rice, 29, was named in published reports as the target of a scheme aimed at exchanging her for SLA members Joseph Remiro and Russell Little.

Los Angeles police confirmed Monday that they had placed a guard around Mrs. Rice, her husband and their three children in early October, when the plot was first discovered.

"The threat is still there, the plot is still there," an FBI spokesman said, refusing further comment.

Mrs. Rice, a member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, sister of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and daughter of former Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, said: "There was some talk, but I don't want to comment."

Some law enforcement sources said the ransom demands also included talk of freeing William and Emily Harris, awaiting trial here on charges of robbery, assault and kidnaping.

Already convicted of murdering Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, Little and Remiro are now on trial here for the attempted murder of a Concord policeman.

A spokesman for Gov. Brown said the alleged plot was being treated "as a serious matter." He said the governor was informed of it some time ago, and was being kept abreast of steps taken to protect his sister and her family.

Law enforcement sources said the plot was hatched by the Black Guerrilla Family, a San Quentin prison group which allegedly has close ties to the SLA.

Named as a central figure in the scheme was James Harold (Doc) Holliday, 33. A leader in the Black Guerrilla Family, Holliday was paroled July 23 after serving 14 years on a murder conviction.

Holliday is back in custody now, arrested Nov. 1 and booked for investigation of murder after two people were shot and two injured in South Central Los Angeles.

The other man arrested in that case, 29-year-old Michael Cowans, was reported to have said after his arrest that he was "high up" in the SLA.

Daryl Gates, assistant chief of police, said it is not believed the double murder and the kidnap plot are related.

Sen. Church blasts nomination of Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee chairman today opposed the nomination of George Bush as CIA director, saying confirmation would make "a travesty" of agency reform and threaten the CIA's ability to stand up to the White House and the Pentagon.

The chairman, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, also warned his colleagues that excessive criticism of the CIA could destroy its role as a counterbalance to the "frightening forecasts" sometimes made by the Pentagon in a effort to justify larger military budgets or new weapons systems.

"One must view with some alarm the prospect of a silenced CIA succumbing to an increasingly dominant military voice in calculating the foreign threat to our nation," Church said in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor.

"However," Church added, "it is not only a matter of standing up to the Pentagon. We need a CIA that can resist all the partisan pressures which may be brought to bear by various groups inside the government — including partisan pressures from the White House itself."

Noting Bush's background as a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, Church asked, "If CIA assessments should collide with a favored course of action at the White House, would a dedicated party man like Mr. Bush be able to stand up to pressures from a Republican President in an election year?"

Fear 29 lost as freighter sinks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — An oil slick, two empty lifeboats and debris were spotted today on Lake Superior near where the ore carrier Edmund Fitzgerld sank in a storm with 29 crewmen aboard, the Coast Guard said.

"It has sunk. The ship disappeared off the radar scopes in the area and we've searched 18 hours for the vessel. We classify it as sunk," declared Bryan Norris, a spokesman at Coast Guard headquarters in Washington.

Oglebay-Norton Co., owner of the 17-year-old freighter, identified the Fitzgerald's captain as E. R. McSorley of Toledo, Ohio, and said 28 others, including a cadet sailor, were aboard.

Some debris was reported washed up at Pancake Point on the Canadian shore near Batchawana Bay, about 50 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie. Ontario police were dispatched to the area to search for possible survivors.

"We're finding a lot of debris and we've found a couple of lifeboats. But we haven't found any people alive or dead," said Chief Jere Bennett of the Coast Guard air rescue station at Sault Ste. Marie in Michigan's eastern Upper Peninsula.

"There's a lot of debris, but we haven't found anything that's a part of the ship, only things that would have washed off," he said.

The freighters Roger Blau and Wilfred Sykes joined the vessel Arthur M. Anderson to search the area for survivors. Coast Guard C130 airplanes and helicopters were crisscrossing the area.

Debris began turning up after 5 a.m. about 13 miles north of Whitefish Point, some 45 miles northwest of here. None of the recovered items could be definitely linked to the 729-foot-long Fitzgerald, however, the Coast Guard said.

Waves in the area today diminished to four to seven feet after mounting to as high as 25 feet Monday night in winds gusting to 75 miles per hour. The water temperature was 51 degrees.

Judge sets Hearst trial date; attorney insists she's unready

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, her thoughts still wrapped in silence, was ordered to stand trial Dec. 15 while her attorney launched a fight for time to cure the traumas he says afflict her mind.

Insisting that Miss Hearst is incompetent to stand trial — despite a judge's ruling to the contrary — attorney Albert Johnson prepared to summon psychiatric experts to tell all about their secret probings of Miss Hearst's psyche.

He also began drafting an appeal to a higher court on the question of how soon the law requires the Hearst trial to begin.

The attorney said he will subpoena three psychiatrists and one psychologist who spent some six weeks examining the heiress in her jail cell. Their sworn testimony, if admitted by the judge, would be given at a hearing set for Nov. 20.

Johnson says he's sure the four would disagree with the ruling of U. S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter that Miss Hearst is perfectly able to aid in her defense.

Meanwhile, at a hearing Monday, the 21-year-old Miss Hearst sat pale and mute, refusing to enter a plea to bank robbery charges. The judge entered a plea of innocent for her.

"If Miss Hearst stands mute, then the court will enter a plea of not guilty to the indictment on these charges," Carter said. He then ignored defense protests and set the trial to open Dec. 15.

She stands indicted on two federal counts — one of bank robbery, the other of using a firearm to commit a felony — in the April 1974 robbery of a Hibernia bank branch.

The stocky dark-haired Johnson, standing at a lectern in the jammed courtroom, raised the competncy issue as the hearing began. He indicated that he and his partner, F. Lee Bailey, were stunned by the judge's ruling Friday that Miss Hearst is competent to stand trial.

The judge, who offered an opportunity for cross-examination of the doctors before his ruling, did not immediately say whether their testimony will be allowed.

U. S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. said he will oppose such testimony which he said should have come earlier.

"We did not choose to crossexamine the psychiatrists (then) because we agreed with their findings," Johnson told the judge. "Your honor's ruling so distorted those findings that it now requires a hearing."

He told Carter: "Your honor is in very grave danger of presenting a defendant for trial, knowing she is incompetent."

The slender Miss Hearst, clad in a brown pantssuit, did not utter a word during the hearng. She smiled at her parents and a sister in the courtroom and gave them a small wave goodbye as she was led out.

It was the first time since her arrest Sept. 18 that she had shown any recognition of her family's presence at her several court appearances.

In a private conference in the judge's chambers following the hearing, attorneys agreed that Miss Hearst will not be taken to Los Angeles for arraignment on state charges until after her trial here is over. She is under indictment there for robbery, kidnaping and assault.

Quinlan case ruling vexes Torrance dad

TORRANCE (AP) — If his son shows no sign of progress in another six months, says Lawrence Clemons, then he'll probably begin a court battle to disconnect the respirator keeping the young man alive.

"I will give it what I feel is sufficient time," Clemons said Monday. I've pretty well set my mind at 12 months. If my son is still lying there as he is today, I will probably push then."

Clemons' 19-year-old son Darrell suffered extensive brain damage in a motorcycle accident nearly six months ago. Doctors say the youth could live only four minutes if the respirator was disconnected.

Clemons said he had anticipated the ruling by a judge in Morristown, N.J. rejecting Joseph Quinlan's request for permission to unhook the respirator that has kept his 21-year-old daughter Karen alive for seven months.

"He pushed it right back in the lap of the doctor, without any protection for the doctor," Clemons said of the ruling by Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. that unhooking Miss Quinlan's respirator "is a medical decision."

"I was hoping that if they appeal this that somewhere up the line a higher court will make the decision that will in effect give doctors the power to make this decision without fear" of malpractice suits or prosecution for murder, Clemons said.

"There should be something on the books that would allow us (to end extraordinary life support) if and when the time comes," Clemons said. "If the doctors say all medical help has been rendered and he will remain a vegetable...."

Clemons, 43, and his former wife disagree on what should be done in Darrell's case.

"I am of the opinion that I would pull the plug tomorrow if the doctor said this was as far as they could go," he said, but adding that Darrell's mother is "still waiting for that miracle."

Their disagreement poses another question as well, he said.

"Which one of us can legally make the decision?" Clemons asked. "What happens if I go in and tell the doctor to pull it and she goes in and tells him not to?"

San Dimas will seek community development aid for second year

The San Dimas City Council approved the option of joining with Los Angeles County Monday for the second year application for Community Development Act funding.

In a report from Mark Flannery, administrative assistant, the history of the federal funding and the progress of the initial 1974-75 application were detailed.

The first year application and the cooperation agreement with the county will be finalized soon. Approximately $30,000 for 1974-75 is expected to be paid to the City of San Dimas within two months.

With the second year application pending, Flannery asked councilmen if they wished to enter into agreement with the county again.

He listed the various advantages of a joint venture with the county.

The administrative assistant said "We have a fairly good idea of how much money we can receive, and when. They (the county) appear to be a continued dependable source of CDA funds. We are accustomed to their administrative methods and procedures and it seems there is probably less paper-pushing involved in working with the county than there would be with the federal government."

If the city were to apply directly to the federal government, its chances of receiving funds would be greatly reduced.

"Finally," said Flannery, "we have just been advised by the League of Cities' technical committee that we may receive up to $200,000 in the third funding year if we continue to sign cooperation agreements with Los Angeles County.

"The figures of $44,460 (for 1975-76) and $200,000 (for 1976-77) are only planning estimates at this time. They represent the amount available to San Dimas if all 55 eligible cities join with the . . . county. If any city fails to join the county, the total amount available will increase."

He noted that 36 of the eligible cities joined with the county in 1974-75.

The council's approval of the recommendation was unanimous. All CDA funds are earmarked for development of San Dimas Pioneer Park to be located on the site of the old San Dimas Elementary School.

In other action, the council:

—Acknowledged a report from Mayor Jim Lough about a meeting with representatives of the City of Pomona to discuss transit problems on Nov. 25. The dinner meeting will be held in the San Dimas Community Building.

—Instructed the city attorney to examine possible ordinances prohibiting skateboards and horses on the wooden sidewalks in downtown San Dimas. Councilman James McLean, a businessman in the area, noted that both are becoming an increasing nuiscance.

—Supported the Southern California Association of Governments as the designated water quality planning agency for Southern California.

—Approved a request from Bruce Richards to raise the delinquency fee for dog licenses from $2 to $3 and to allow the Pomona Valley Humane Society to establish its own schedule for boarding fees. On the latter, the Humane Society will notify participating cities before changing its rates.

Banker discounts N.Y. crisis fears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chairman of the nation's eighth largest commercial bank says the impact of a New York City default has been greatly overestimated and that the city's financial crisis is "a good thing" for the country.

Schmitz will battle Tunney as Republican

LONG BEACH (AP) — John G. Schmitz, asking the support of "people tired of the politics of fad and cliche," has announced he will seek the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat John V. Tunney.

The 1972 American Independent Party presidential candidate and former Congressman said Monday he will make his bid as a Republican. Schmitz is currently the Orange County chairman of the conservative Republican Assembly.

Schmitz' announcement came aboard the Queen Mary, and he chose Monday because it is the 200th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps. Schmitz is a Marine reserve colonel.

Schmitz, chairman of the political science department at Santa Ana College, said that "people in '76 are ready for an unpolitician."

A state Senator before his election to Congress in 1970, the 45-year-old Schmitz said his campaign will focus on the "basic moral breakdown in this country."

He said, "Men don't make the laws. God makes the laws. There is a divine law that man has gotten away from. And that's why we have a moral crisis."

Schmitz said he considers himself a definite underdog in the June primary election, which will decide the Republican nomination.

Surprise visitor at Marine event: Nixon

CAMP PENDLETON (AP)— "Even though I was a Navy officer, I was proud to have served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific," said the unexpected visitor who watched a pageant here marking the Marine Corps' 200th birthday.

Former President Richard M. Nixon, looking more tanned than he did a month ago, visited the huge base Monday along with his wife, Pat.

The Nixons surprised a crowd of some 2,000 mostly Marine families and watched from first-row center seats in the bleachers as 5,000 Marines, including color guards from various Southern California bases, marched past in Marine uniforms from past eras.

"I thought it was a splendid ceremony," Nixon told a television reporter after the parade.

"I thought the Marine Corps today put on a very moving and splendid ceremony. It made us proud of our nation. It made us proud of the Marine Corps, and it made us proud of all the men and women who have served this nation in very difficult times and have made us the leading free nation in the world today."

Nixon, who has lived in relative seclusion at his estate in nearby San Clemente since he resigned the presidency, continued:

"I know that the spirit of the Marine Corps which everybody was reminded of, will help America continue to meet its responsibilities in the world."

Nixon made his remarks after he was asked if he planned to participate in the national bicentennial celebration. He did not reply directly to that question.

After commenting on the Marine Corps, the Nixons climbed back into a black Cadillac and were chauffeured back to their seaside home by a Secret Service agent.

Businessman convicted of hiring wife's killers

WOODLAND (AP) — A 56year-old Napa businessman was convicted Monday on charges that he ordered the contract killing of his estranged wife.

Harry Nelson Harding was found guilty of murder and conspiracy by a six-man, six-woman jury that deliberated almost 11 hours over three days in Yolo County Superior Court.

Judge Warren Taylor set Nov. 18 for the second phase of the trial when the same jury will decide if Mrs. Harding was the victim of a plot involving murder for hire.

If so, Harding would automatically receive the death penalty under state law.

Two bay area men, Edward Robert Conover, 36, and Fred McClelland 31, already have been sentenced to die for their roles in the murder plot.

Harding showed no reaction to the verdict. None of his family, which had been present through the nine-week trial, was present for the verdict.

Natha Jean Harding, 47, of Colusa, was slain May 14, 1974, by shots fired at her auto from a passing car on a rural road two miles north of Woodland.

The prosecution contended that Harding ordered the killing through Conover because of problems Harding was having with his wife over a divorce settlement. They were married 24 years.

Dist. Atty. C. Robert Jameson said the murder prevented a property settlement that would deprive Harding of his Napa flea market where tax authorties found he was skimming more than $50,000 a year in unreported income.

Trial evidence included a pattern of phone calls between Harding and Conover that ended 90 minutes after Mrs. Harding was killed. Three witnesses said they heard Conover say he was acting as go-between in a plot to kill Mrs. Harding.

New Yorkers may face increase in sales tax

Carey's plan would boost sales taxes to 9 cents

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey has stitched together a complex new proposal — involving new state and city taxes, and help from banks and the federal government — to keep New York City from default and stabilize the state's own shaky finances.

New York City residents, who already have the highest sales taxes in the country, would be faced with a one-cent sales tax increase, to nine cents on the dollar.

As state officials worked on the plan Monday, Deputy White House Press Secretary William Greener repeated President Ford's promise to veto what the President has termed a "bail-out" of New York City.

But Greener referred to loan guarantee legislation before Congress "as presently drawn." The new Carey plan would reduce the minimum $4 billion in federal loan guarantees previously sought by the city to $1.5 billion to $2 billion.

To make up the difference, the plan would require heavy support from banks, other investors and taxpayers.

The cash-stricken city once again avoided default Monday, meeting $270.7 million in obligations with funds from various sources, including the sale of state-backed bonds to city pension funds and to the State Insurance Fund.

Ford, meanwhile, met with five Senate Democratic leaders to discuss a Senate proposal to provide $4 billion in federal loan guarantees.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said Ford indicated he wanted to do everything possible to help the city but that he still is opposed to federal loan guarantees.

The House Ways and Means Committee begins consideration today of a bill to provide the city with $7 billion in loan guarantees. Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said he expects the House to vote on the bill next Monday. He said chances for passage look more favorable than a week ago.

Details of the new Carey plan have not been made public, but The Associated Press learned it includes a one-cent increase in the city sales tax. The current city sales tax is 4 per cent, which combines with a state sales tax of 4 per cent to add 8 cents to the cost of purchasing $1 worth of most goods in the city.

The one-cent increase in the city would cost the average resident an estimated $30 a year and raise $235 million.

In addition, state taxes on corporations and banks would be raised by $315 million this fiscal year, through a 20 per cent surcharge on the corporate franchise tax and the extension to upstate banks of a tax increase imposed on the city banks earlier this year.

INDEPENDENCE Militiamen wave their machetes as they join in a midnight celebration of Angola's independence in Luanda on Tuesday. Agostinho Neto was inaugurated president at the celebration. Portugal has withdrawn from the African colony it has ruled for almost 500 years.

Celebration hits Angola streets

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Thousands of Africans lined the streets of Luanda today to welcome Angolan independence while rival liberation groups were setting up at least two competing governments for the war-torn nation.

Agostinho Neto, who was inaugurated president in Luanda, declared Angola independent at midnight Monday under the rule of his Soviet-backed MPLA, the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola. Two other movements did likewise in parts of the former Portuguese territory that they control, and their armies were reported advancing on the capital from north and south.

Jonas Savimbi, head of UNITA — the pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — lit a freedom torch in Nova Lisboa in central Angola. It was announced in Kinshasa, Zaire, that UNITA and FNLA — the Chinese and Zaire-supported National Front — were getting together to form a government.

The midnight celebration in Luanda included jungle drums and bullets and shells streaking across the sky, the nearest thing the MPLA had to fireworks. At times the guns were pointed dangerously low, but all the bullets went over the heads of the revelers.

Two of the shots hit a Red Cross plane that landed safely at Luanda airport. A Portuguese jetliner bringing delegations from the French, Italian, Romanian, and Portuguese Communist parties turned away and flew back to Lisbon.

Troops of the FNLA were reported 12 miles north of the city, and a column of some 1,500 UNITA and FNLA troops was reported 50 miles south of the capital. It was believed that the advancing forces planned to attack Luanda during MPLA ceremonies.

Quinlans can't cut respirator, judge decides

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — One legal battle has been lost, but Joseph Quinlan is thinking today about taking to a higher court his fight to let his daughter, Karen Anne, "pass into the hands of the Lord."

Karen, 21, slipped into a coma April 15 and has been sustained in a "persistent vegetative state" by a respirator ever since. On Monday a state judge ruled that the respirator must not be disconnected.

Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. said in his decision, "There is no consitutional right to die that can be asserted by a parent for his incompetent adult child."

Muir said the court is empowered to protect Karen's interests and decided "the determination whether or not Karen Anne Quinlan be removed from the respirator is to be left to the treating physician. It is a medical decision, not a judicial one."

Karen's physicians opposed the family's request to unplug the respirator.

"Numb" and "surprised" were words used by Quinlan to describe his reaction to the judge's decision.

"We know what she would say if she were here right now," he said. "She'd say, 'Let's end all this. It's time for me to go home now to my Heavenly Father.'"

Quinlan said he was still weighing whether to appeal the decision to higher courts and had to consider his other two children.

Julia Quinlan, Karen's mother, said the legal proceedings were "something we felt we must do morally. We had already done everything medically and spiritually. So we had to take it to the courts."

"We'll still have the heartache and the anxiety," she said after Monday's ruling.

The Quinlans filed a petition in Judge Muir's court in September asking that Quinlan be appointed Karen's guardian and seeking the court's sanction for ordering her respirator disconnected.

In a 44-page decision, the judge said that Quinlan's attorney, Paul W. Armstrong, failed to prove that the court should order Dr. Robert Morse, Miss Quinlan's treating physican, to shut off the respirator.

"There is a duty to continue the life sustaining apparatus, if within the treating physican's opinion it should be done. Here Dr. Morse has refused to concur in the removal of Karen from the respirator," the judge said.

She claims she bought a 'lemon'

DALLAS (AP) — Candy Ermels has spent most afternoons for the past three weeks picketing the local Chevrolet dealership that sold her a 1975 Monza "lemon."

The 37-year-old divorced mother of two said she decided to picket after her 35th trip to the dealer for repair work on everything from the bumpers to the brakes.

Arvel Rodgers, general manager of the dealership, said, "General Motors wouldn't accept the theory that a lemon could be manufactured.

"Besides, I've never seen a car that couldn't be fixed," said Rodgers, who added that his records indicated Mrs. Ermels' car had been in for repair only seven times.

Mrs. Ermels said it all started last February on the day she got her car, which listed for $5,263. She returned to the dealer three times because the car's cooling system warning light was on and her speedometer needle jumped. She said the repairmen told her the problems would correct themselves soon.

So the first weekend she had the car, she drove 240 miles to Houston. On the way, she received a $32 speeding ticket because of her speedometer, she said.

She said that in Houston she was told at a Chevrolet dealership the reason her cooling system light was on was because the car needed water. They also told her the emission control system had never been hooked up.

Since then, she said she has had problems with exhaust fumes, the air conditioner, the radio, the brakes, the electrical system and the bumpers.

"I don't claim every car built by General Motors is a lemon, but the one they sold me is," Mrs. Ermels said. "They should just admit it and take the car back."

Mrs. Ermles said she is not about to quit her picketing.

"I've already filed a lawsuit against them, and I'm not going to compromise my case by going over to see them now," she said. "Besides, if they couldn't fix the car in 35 trips, they can't do it now."

Fromme causes more excitement as judge dismisses her again

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An elderly friend of Lynette Fromme says she grabbed a .45-caliber pistol from his table in July — the same gun authorities say she pointed at President Ford in September.

Miss Fromme was absent from the court Monday for the testimony by 66 year-old Harold Boro.

She had been barred from her trial for the second straight day by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride after refusing to promise to avoid disruptions. A deputy marshal carried her into the courthouse after she blindfolded herself and refused to walk out of the jailhouse.

When MacBride asked her if she would keep quiet and agree to express any objections through court-appointed attorney John Virga, she said, "No, I'm the only one who could put on my defense."

Miss Fromme was ejected twice last Friday after trying to plead guilty and demanding the presence of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson.

The 27-year-old Manson disciple was arrested Sept. 5 in a park outside the state Capitol and charged with attempted murder of the President. Secret Service officers said she held a loaded gun less than two feet from Ford.

If convicted, she could be sentenced to life in prison — the same sentence Manson and four followers are now serving for the 1969 slayings of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons.

In another development Monday, Lanier Ramer, a project assistant on the American Civil Liberties Union's prison project, was found in contempt of court for refusing to say whether he had met with Miss Fromme in July.

Scotus will hear board arguments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to hear arguments of the Pasadena, Calif., Board of Education that it should no longer be bound by a 1970 school desegregation order.

The court will review a May 5 decision of the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco upholding the refusal of a federal judge in Los Angeles to lift his original order.

The case stems from an order issued in January, 1970, requiring that "there shall be no school in the district ... with a majority of any minority students."

NYC scoffs at charge

NEW YORK (AP) — City officials have denied allegations that New York owes pharmacy owners $5 million for filling Medicaid prescriptions. The pharmacists had said they would refuse to fill new prescriptions until they are paid for bills up to two years old.

Anthony Vaccarello, executive assistant to Mayor Abraham D. Beame, said. "The oldest unpaid invoice is just a few months old."

Jury must decide on Thomas' fate

A Pomona Superior Court jury will resume pondering Wednesday whether Gregory Thomas, 21, should be given the death penalty in the rape-slaying April 7 of 78-year-old Tessie Fern Williams.

Judge Robert M. Takasugi instructed the panel late Monday afternoon and released them to return Wednesday.

Thomas was ruled guilty Thursday of first-degree murder, first-degree burglary and rape by the same jury which now must decide the death penalty issue as the trial moved Monday from the guilt-or-innocence phase to the penalty phase.

In recommending the death penalty against the young Pomonan, Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert F. Kihnert told the jury it had only to decide whether the victim was killed "deliberately, willfully and with premeditation" during the commission of the burglary and the rape.

Kuhnert said that in his opinion, no other interpretation is possible because of the seven stab wounds the woman suffered. Four were in her chest and three in her face, Kuhnert reminded the panel, and he maintained that a person could not stab another person that many times without truly meaning to do so.

He said the stabbing was not comparable to "a twitch of a finger on a trigger" in the case of a gunshot death.

Defense attorney Joe Borges Jr. of Pomona told the jury that during the trial he had attempted to show that at the very most, Thomas was guilty of murder and the other offense only through aiding abetting someone else in their commission.

He said the members must determine if there was a specific intent to kill and told them he felt there was not. He pointed out that their decision on the death penalty issue would be the most important decision they would make in their lives.

During the trial Thomas denied that he had killed the former missionary nurse and claimed that he found her dead on the floor of her small home when he accompanied a friend there.

The Fourth District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino has upheld the convictions of two persons who participated in the 1972 ambush of a state prison car and the freeing of Ronald Wayne Beaty that left a prison guard dead and another wounded.

In a 25-page opinion Presiding Justice Robert Gardner of the Court of Appeal Monday concluded that the defendants Benton D. Burt, 32, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt, the daughter of a Stanford University medical professor, had received a fair trial, free from judicial error, and apologized for not dealing at greater length in the opinion with the various defense issues raised.

The apology came in reference to the Burts' 360-page brief filed by their attorneys. Concurring in the opinion were justices Marcus Kauman and Franklin McDaniel.

The Burts, following a lengthy 1973 trial were convicted of second degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuirng a prisoner.

A LOS ANGELES Superior Court jury has begun deliberating its verdict in the trial of three reputed motorcycle gang members charged with murdering an Ontario man, kidnaping and murdering a Pomonan and attempting to murder a Walnut man Feb. 5.

The case against Donald Kelso, 25, Ontario, Charles Evans, 34, Lawndale, and David Dupres, 19, Torrance, was transferred from Pomona Superior Court into Los Angeles for technical reasons last summer. Testimony required almost three weeks.

The victims in the case were Adelbert Hempy, 34, Ontario, and Michael O'Hara, 25, Pomona, both of whom were shot to death, and Anteleon Sanchez, 29, of Walnut, who was wounded. The violence was at Sanchez' motorcycle shop in Industry and was the result of trouble between the Vagos and Warlords motorcycle gangs, sheriff's officers said.

A fourth man, Gregory White, 20, Hacienda Heights, already has been convicted of the charges after being granted an earlier and separate trial. He faces sentencing later this month.

ONTARIO police this morning continued their investigation into the burglary of the Eugene Dwitt Baker home, 837 E. J St., Sunday night that netted burglars over $5,600 in stolen goods, including an oil painting valued at $3,000.

Baker reported the burglary of his home Sunday night upon his return from visiting his sister in Northern California. Baker found that the burglars had taken 15 oil paintings, a rifle with a scope, a coin collection, color television set and numerous small appliances.

Police said the burglars gained entrance by cutting a screen and forcing open a rear door. The home was completely ransacked.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1975. There are 50 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, World War I ended with the signing of an armistice in Marshal Foch's railway car in the forest of Compiegne, France.

On this date:

In 1620, the Pilgrims signed a compact aboard the Mayflower while anchored off Cape Cod.

In 1851, the first patent for a telescope was issued to Alvin Clark of Cambridge, Mass.

In 1889, Washington was admitted to the Union as the 42nd state.

In 1921, the Wash. Disarmament Conference convened.

In 1933, the first of the great dust storms of the 1930's swept across North Dakota.

In 1942, in World War II, the Germans occupied all of France.

Ten years ago: The white government of Rhodesia declared its independence from Britain, and London denounced the unilatral move as rebellion and treason.

Five years ago: General Motors and the United Auto Workers Union reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract, raising hope that the end of a long strike was near.

One year ago: The United Nations was under tight security as representatives of the Palestinian Liberation Movement flew to New York to argue their case before the U.N.

Today's birthdays: Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower is 79 years old. Comedian Jonathan Winters is 50.

Thought for today: Delays have dangerous ends. — William Shakespeare, 1564-1616.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Conn. assured the Continental Congress that although the state had legal rights to certain disputed lands in Penn., it desired only a peaceful, equitable solution of the controversy.

What's going on around here

HORSE SHOW — Two breeds of horses, the Morgan and Peruvian Paso, will show together Nov. 15 and 16 at the Los Angeles County Fairground's Carnation Ring.

The show is being sponsored by the Southern California Peruvian Paso Horse Club. Classes will begin both days at 8 a.m. Both breeds will be judged by Billy Harris.

The program will include a parade of stallions and a "sale barn." Admission is free.

CUB SCOUT AWARDS — Members of Cub Scout Pack 777 in Diamond Bar received badges during a recent meeting.

They were Rob Powell, wolf badge, and Billie Holbrow and Lance Koenings, bobcat badges.

EMPLOYES RETIRE — Three employes retiring from the Southern California Edison Co. were honored recently at a breakfast held at Griswold's restaurant in Claremont.

They are Catherine C. Arrosagary, employed 39 years and who served as secretary to various district managers; William Hopcroft, 36 years, a service center clerk; and Robert L. Brinkerhoff, 30 years, a line crew foreman.

READING AIDS FAIR — The annual Reading Aids Fair sponsored by the Foothill Council of the International Reading Association will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at Vina Danks School in Ontario.

Teachers and reading specialists from local school districts will display various teacher-made reading aids and materials.

The event is open to all interested persons. Registration may be completed at the door.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS WANTED — Residents in the Rowland School District are being asked to donate musical instruments they may have to the district's schools.

Instruments currently needed are flute, clarinet, alto sax, trombone and trumpet.

The drive for instruments was prompted by the enthusiastic response to a beginning instrumental music program offered in elementary schools.

Now in its second year in four schools, the program has been expanded to provide instruction in 10 of the district's 14 elementary schools.

George Dibs, assistant superintendent of Nogales education production, said enrollment in the intermediate school instructional program also has dramatically increased. As a result, he said, there are many more youngsters wishing to participate than there are instruments.

Inquiries regarding donations of instruments may be made by calling George Gullett, Rowland band instructor at 965-3448, or Rae Boeving, Nogales band instructor, at 965-3437.

CHINO CLASS OF '56 REUNION — Chino High School's class of 1956 is planning a 20th reunion for next spring and is seeking former classmates.

Persons having information regarding the whereabouts of the classmates should contact Valerie Pelletier, 984-2152, Charlene Floistad Corsaro, 984-1438, or mail a note to Donna Waggoner VanderMeulen, 12479 Yorba Ave., Chino, 91710.

SALES-NUTRITION TRAINING — Peter Bekendam of 15960 Pomona Rincon Road, Chino, has completed a sales and nutrition training program with Moorman Manufacturing Co. of California, Inc.

Bekendam, a sales employe of the firm, can now service the needs of Chino Valley dairymen.

ED BIEDERMAN has received the George Elliot Award presented by the American Water Works Association, California section. He is general manager of the Walnut Valley Water District.

Business leery of Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Foreign development specialists say Egypt will have to put its economic house in order and change its investment law before American businessmen will heed President Ford's call for them to set up shop here.

Ford told Egyptian newsmen at the close of President Anwar Sadat's recent visit to the United States he would urge American businessmen to invest in their country.

Along with West European and Japanese businessmen, American executives have been drooping into Cairo by the hundreds following the government's announcement two years ago of an open-door policy after 20 years of Arab socialism.

Cairo's four luxury hotels are jammed. Reservations at least three months in advance are needed, and room rates have doubled to $62 a day.

But no major investment deals have been signed.

"There has been a lot of talk," one specialist said, "but the answer to how much American investment there has been is zero."

Union Carbide, FMC Corp. of California, Ford Motor Co. and others are talking. Pzifer and Co. and Standard of Indiana have operations in Egypt. Exxon and Mobil are exploring for oil along with 24 other firms granted concessions since the 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

To encourage the flow of money into Egypt, the government allowed foreign banks — nationalized in 1961 — to resume operations. Four American banks have opened in the past year. But the basic factor discouraging foreign businessmen, one economic source said, is "a lousy investment law. It has to be more enticing."

At a recent meeting top-level U.S. executives told Egyptians their investment law is vague on repatriation of profits and they complained about the confusion of three different exchange rates for the Egyptian pound. They described Egypt's red tape as among the most adhesive in the Middle East.

Foreign businessmen say lack of good roads, transport, communications and a distribution system are also discouraging factors.

"We're out here to do what we can for Egypt," said a California fruit processor, "but we're also out here to see what we can do for ourselves. Foreign investment is not foreign aid."

Many companies are trying to put together so-called triangular deals in which Americans would provide the technology and know-how, the Egyptians the labor and the Arab oil states the money. But informants say a faction of the royal family in Saudi Arabia considers Egypt a bottomless pit and does not want to invest here.

Egypt also has severe economic problems that do not instill investor confidence. For a quarter of a century it has channeled all its resources into the war effort against Israel. Its foreign debt may reach $11 billion this year. Exports are not likely to bring in more than $1.7 billion; $5.2 billion worth of imports are planned. A third of the imports is food to feed the population of 37 million, which is growing by a million a year and has a per capita income of only $250 a year.

Sadat wants to ease this desperate poverty by making Egypt, with its vast pool of skilled and semiskilled labor, the industrial nation of the Middle East. He is concentrating his personal efforts on the open-door campaign now that he has stabilized the situation with Israel.

"It would be a tragedy if it doesn't work," he said recently. But he admitted there would be difficulties as his government tried to transform its socialist system, in which the government runs 75 per cent of the economy, to a mixed one.

Ground beef a tricky buy

By the Editors of Consumer Reports
(Eighth in a Series)

Ground beef can be made from a variety of cuts of beef, all containing differing amounts of lean beef and fat. But no matter what cut it's from, ground beef, according to federal law, must contain no more than 30 per cent fat.

At the store, the most common labels for ground beef are "ground beef," "ground chuck," and "ground round." Ground round is supposed to be the leanest cut, followed by ground chuck, and then by ground beef which is sometimes called "hamburger." A shopper can't tell the exact lean-fat content of ground beef. Depending on the cut it was taken from, ground round may sometimes contain as much fat as ground chuck.

Which ground beef is the best value for the money? The answer is a bit tricky. It seems obvious enough that the leaner the ground beef, the more protein in the uncooked meat. But the U.S. Department of Agriculture says that the leaner cuts of ground beef usually cost more than their lower fat content is worth. Consumers Union advises you to buy the least expensive cut of beef and have the beef ground to order.

Another way to save money on meat bills is to use ground beef mixed with soy extenders. The products come in two basic forms: — Premixed ground beef and textured vegetable protein (made from soybeans) sold at the supermarket or butcher's meat counter either in the form of patties or in bulk.

— A packaged dry product of textured vegetable protein (made from soybeans) that you mix at home with ground beef.

The premixed beef-soy products you buy at the supermarket usually contain three parts beef to one part watered soy product. If you follow the instructions for mixing on the packages of dry textured vegetable protein, you'll get two parts beef to one part watered soy product.

Consumers Union's consultants compared all-beef patties — made from combined ground round and ground chuck — with patties made from store-prepared beef-soy mixes and also patties prepared at home from soy product mixed with meat. As a rule, the all-beef urgers tasted best. As for the two types of soyburgers, Consumers Union's testers liked the taste of those made with a packaged dry mix better than that of the premixed beef-soy products. In terms of protein content, both beef-soy blends had about the same amount of protein as the all-beef patties.

Though you may prefer the taste of all-beef patties, Consumers Union thinks it's well worth considering the savings possible by mixing textured soy product with ground beef. The savings will vary, of course, with the price of the meat and the price of the soy extender.

You may think that ground beef will have a longer storage life if you buy it already frozen at the supermarket. On the contrary, Consumers Union's tests have shown that a much poorer quality of meat is generally used for frozen meat products and that an overlong storage period — especially if the freezer temperature stays above 0 degrees Fahrenheit — gives the meat a stale, rancid odor. In terms of protein content, frozen ground beef costs over 60 per cent more than the average price of fresh ground beef because of low-quality meat used for the frozen product. What's more, Consumer's Union's consultants judged most of the patties made from frozen ground beef to be poor in taste.

(NEXT: Are frozen dinners too costly?)

Brig. Gen. Richard Montgomery's comments on his troops of the Canadian campaign of December, 1775, reveal just how low the fever of patriotism had fallen in Canada's freezing winds. New Englanders in his command were, "the worst stuff imaginable for soldiers." He could find among them "no zealous attachment to the Cause." As for New Yorkers, they were the "sweepings to the York (city) streets." Their morals were "infamous", and they had no more spirit than the New Englanders. "Never again," would he "hazard my reputation at the head of such ragamuffins," The World Almanac notes.

Retaliation over voting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 1,000 San Franciscans got parking tickets from police patrolmen the day after passage of propositions opposed by police.

Patrol divisions wrote 1,114 parking tickets Wednesday — compared to 346 the day before, according to tabulations released Thursday. The figures did not include tickets issued by meter maids and other traffic division officers.

Voters approved propositions banning strikes by police and firemen and limiting their salaries in Tuesday's election. The measures were put on the ballot after police and firemen went on strike last August.

Supervising Capt. Jeremiah Taylor called the rash of ticketing "petty and vindictive."

"This type of personal motivation for the issuance of tickets will not be tolerated," Taylor said.

Jack Anderson

Nixon's efforts to destroy columnist

WASHINGTON — Winston Churchill once said that nothing is more exhilarating than to be shot at — and missed. It is in this spirit that I look back upon the White House plots to ply me with poisons and hallucinogens.

To be sure, these conspiracies had a Maxwell Smart quality. But an organized attempt by the White House to destroy or discredit a reporter should not be airily dismissed because it failed or because the results had a comic side.

No President should be permitted to marshall the awesome powers of government against a reporter, not even for the grievous offense of embarrassing the White House.

I would prefer to write this story about someone else. But since I was the unhappy object of Richard Nixon's revenge, it is my story. The full facts, I now feel, should be placed on the public record.

From sources and documents made available to me, here is the incredible story. It can best be told in chronological order:

OCT. 6, 1970: President Nixon, who had grouched about earlier stories I had written, positively exploded over a column about his backstage efforts to get a higher presidential pension. Not long afterwards, staff chief H.R. Haldeman assigned a special White House investigator, Jack Caulfield, to investigate me.

FEB. 11, 1971: In a confidential report to Haldeman, Caulfield revealed that I had "access to intelligence digests and . . . private presidential memoranda." He called for "an overt firing of a person directly connected with a leak." This would make "the ability of the Andersons of the world to gain White House information both difficult and hazardous," he suggested.

SHORTLY THEREAFTER: One witness recalls that Haldeman wanted not only to fire but to jail anyone caught leaking information to me. I have been unable to determine that Haldeman did anything more than discuss this idea. But by a striking coincidence, the Pentagon began an immediate search for my sources, with criminal prosecution as the objective.

SUMMER, 1971: The wrong man, Gene Smith, a $13,500-a-year Pentagon clerk, was fingered and dragged before a grand jury. The charges were eventually dropped.

NOV. 11, 1971: White House aide Charles Colson came up with a preposterous charge that I had been paid $100,000 to write favorable stories about the erstwhile Cuban dictator Batista. "It now appears," wrote Colson in a confidential memo, "as if we have the opportunity to destroy Anderson's credibility."

DEC. 14 or 15, 1971: President Nixon, furious over my stories that he had lied about his India-Pakistan policy, unleashed the notorious White House pumbers against me. They set aside their investigation of Pentagon Papers leaker Daniel Ellsberg and scrawled my name on a wallboard in their basement sanctum, as their new Public Enemy No. 1.

DEC. 23, 1971: David Young, one of the plumbers, asked Pentagon investigator W. Donald Stewart to trump up a homosexual charge against me. When Stewart refused, Young complained: "Damn it! Damn it! The President is jumping up and down, and he wants this and we're always telling him everything can't be done."

LATE DECEMBER, 1971: The plumbers also discussed coating my steering wheel with an exotic poison that they intended to scrounge from the Central Intelligence Agency. This was supposed to penetrate my skin as I was driving home, causing a fatal accident. They got the idea, my sources suggest, from a possible offhand remark by Colson that he'd "like to slip Anderson a mickey." But no assassination order, so far as I can learn, was actually issued to the plumbers.

SHORTLY THEREAFTER: White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder, referring to me at a staff conference, grumped: "Boy, it'd be nice if we could get rid of that guy." Plumber G. Gordon Liddy thought he had been instructed to kill me. He was stopped, mercifully, after an aide apprised Magruder of Liddy's intent.

JANUARY, 1972: The CIA, in violation of U.S. law, sent men with binoculars and walkietalkies to keep my house under surveillance. They also tailed me and kept two of my reporters under observation.

MARCH 9 or 10, 1972: President Nixon told aides at a meeting in the oval office: "We have got to get the goods on Jack Anderson." He instructed John Ehrlichman to call FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover and ask for any dirt the FBI might have on me.

MARCH 18, 1972: White House counsel John Dean delivered to the President an FBI summary of its Jack Anderson file. Nixon was so disappointed that he scribbled a handwritten, "Dear Edgar" note to the FBI director, asking for more details. Additional information was furnished.

MARCH, 1972: The Justice Department's Internal Security Division, Republican National Committee and Committee to Reelect the President were enlisted in the campaign against me.

SUMMER, 1972: H. R. Haldeman sent a message to the Justice Department urging that I be nailed for some crime, any crime. Officials decided they might be able to make a case that our access to government documents constituted "possession of stolen goods." They discussed a raid on my office but decided against it.

This is merely the bare bones of the story. W. Donald Stewart has said the Pentagon alone conducted "at least" 11 investigations of me. FBI agents picked up my telephone records, which the courts later compelled them to return. The Internal Revenue Service also spent a full year auditing my tax returns.

Honorary degree for P.C. alum

Donald C. McKenna of South Laguna, chairman of the board of Kennametal Inc., has been presented an honorary doctor of laws degree by his alma mater, Pomona College.

He was presnted the award at the opening convocation of the current academic year.

McKenna has been an active supporter of the college for 30 years and was instrumental in the founding of Claremont Men's College. He is senior member of the CMC board of trustees.

As a student at Pomona College, McKenna was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and served the college literary magazine as business manager and editor.

Author to inscribe new book

Author Esther Boulton Black of Claremont will autograph her new book, "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced," at the Case de Rancho Cucamonga, 7869 Vineyard Ave., Cucamonga, from 2 to 6 p.m. Nov. 23.

The receiption is sponsored by the Casa de Rancho Cucamonga Historical Society. Admission is free. The site, a deisgnated historical landmark of San Bernardino County, is the original home of pioneer John Rains and his wife, Dona Merced. It was built in 1860. The San Bernardino County Museum Commission purchased the building in 1971 and had it restored.

Mrs. Black is the author of "Stories of Old Upland." Her new book is on sale at the San Bernardino County Museum, 2024 Orange Tree Lane, Redlands; at the Casa de Rancho Cucamonga, and at the Upland Travel Bureau, 247 N. Second Ave., Upland.

Vital English training offered

A special Volunteer Vital English teacher-training session, to train volunteers to teach English to foreign-speaking residents, will be held Nov. 22, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the Chino Public Library, 13180 Central Ave.

Coordinator Marquita Strang said no prior teaching experience is necessary.

"Anyone concerned enough to give scheduled time to work with these deserving people may attend two teacher-training sessions and be assigned a family, group or individual to work with," she explained.

"The recent influx of Vietnamese refugees has greatly increased the need for volunteers to act as friends and teachers of the non-English speaking.

"These people desperately need to acquire the ability to communicate in Engoish in order to find and hold jobs."

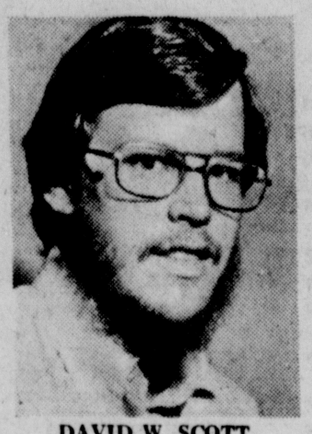

Other special training sessions were held Wednesday in Upland and Thursday in Claremont.

Additional information concerning the program may be obtained by calling Mrs. Strang at 593-9915.

The Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, a United Crusade-supported agency, helped 6,114 ill people last year through its outpatient services clinic.

DAVID W. SCOTT

P.C. student honored

David W. Scott, a Pomona College senior, is one of four college students in the United States to receive this year's Edwin, Frederick and Walter Beinecke Memorial Scholarship, a scholarship which covers the senior year of undergraduate study and two years of graduate study.

The award, funded by the Sperry and Hutchinson Co. in New York, honors three brothers who owned the company from the 1920s to the 1960s.

It covers all existing scholarships and loans for the recipient's senior year, then pays full tuition plus $2,500 a year for two years.

A mathematics major at Pomona College, Scott is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Earle S. Scott of Ripon, Wis. He plans to take his graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Controversial school chief rehired in Chino

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Embattled Chino Schools Supt. Royce Lapp retained his job Monday night — by the narrowest of margins.

The school board, on a 3-2 split vote, renewed Lapp's contract for one year. His present four-year contract will expire next June 30.

Trustee Pete VanderPoel moved to offer the superintendent a one-year contract, despite the fact Lapp twice previously had been given four-year contracts. Al McCombs and Augustine Tapia voted with VanderPoel, while Roy Ward and Lyle Briggs opposed him.

Lapp declined to comment after the vote.

Ward, who had led efforts to oust Lapp and moved Oct. 14 "not to renew" the contract, said he was "disappointed" about the final vote. "We now have a lame duck superintendent. He may resign later."

Tapia, the board president, cast the deciding vote, as expected. He said he felt he had an "obligation to the district to bring about a fair compromise. "This gives the board more time to work out its desires, and the superintendent can see if he can work with a split board."

The "year to year basis" of the contract would allow trustees to work out differences with Lapp on management philosophies, he added.

Tapia claimed Ward's original move to oust Lapp was "not a personal thing. He shouldn't be blamed for it. If I was responsible for giving false assurances in executive session, I apologize to Ward."

Board members had discussed Lapp's contract since July in closed executive sessions. Both Ward and Briggs claimed they were assured by Tapia they would have his vote against Lapp. In fact, Tapia was quoted in the Progress Bulletin Sunday as favoring Lapp's ouster if a split vote developed on the issue.

After the brief executive session and vote to retain Lapp Monday, Ward said, "I now become the Devil's Advocate, for the board and the superintendent."

Asked by VanderPoel what he meant, Ward said there are "questions" he will be raising in the future on "things done in executive sessions."

He further explained that he plans "to keep everyone honest. The board will have to make decisions in open meetings, not closed sessions."

Ward later discussed his opposition to Lapp. "He runs things on a military basis. (Lapp is a colonel in the Army reserves.) I don't object to his talents; he's a talented man. I object to the way he handles his job — he has poor public relations."

Ward, elected on an anti-year-round school platform, said he also objected to the way the YRS program was brought in by Lapp. "People had no say in it."

Briggs, meanwhile, said he was "a little under the weather. I was quite disappointed."

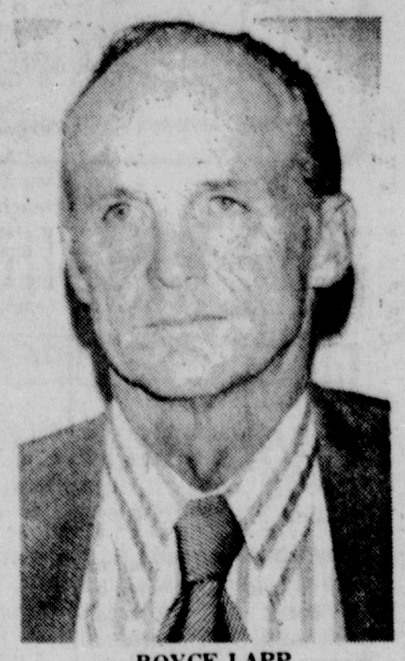

VanderPoel, asked if he supported Lapp, said "Damn right. I supported him when he was first hired in 1969 while I was on the board, and I support him now."

Success of the recent bond election proves that people in this district aren't unhappy over the way it's being run, added VanderPoel.

Prior to the vote, Margaret Coleman of the Chino Parent Council called for renewal of Lapp's contract. "Students have been foremost in his mind. He always listens to our problems."

If the board doesn't renew the contract, "You will be doing the district a great disservice," she said, adding that petitions have been circulating supporting Lapp. "Renew it on his merit, and don't make an emotional decision."

Ruth Foster, another parent, said she "seriously questions your ability as a board if you can't work with the superintendent."

WALK FOR HUNGRY

Valley officials are preparing for the second annual "Walk for the Hungry" scheduled for Sunday. Starting from Memorial Park in Upland. The 10-mile walk is a response to world hunger. From left, examining T-shirts for the event, are Upland Mayor Abner Haldeman, Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith, the Rev. William Barry of Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont and Audrey Lightbody, executive director of the sponsoring Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

5 valley cities in top tax bracket

Residents of the western portion of the valley will pay more taxes on their homes this year than virtually any other part of Los Angeles County.

Figures released today by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson showed that the five cities in Los Angeles County side of the valley are among the top seven with the highest tax rates.

According to the list, Claremont leads all the county's 79 cities with a tax rate of $16.0042 per $100 of assessed valuation.

It is followed by Hidden Hills with a rate of $15.3482; La Verne, $14.8332; Sierra Madre, $14.6397; San Dimas, $14.4955; Pomona, $14.4772, and Walnut, $14.2758.

By contrast, El Segundo has a tax rate of $8.9448, at the low end of the scale, and the Los Angeles rates range from $14.2851 to $14.3212. Beverly Hills has a rate of $10.9736.

According to those levies, the owner of a $30,000 home, assessed at $7,500, will pay $1,200.31 in Claremont, $1,112.49 in La Verne, $1,093.32 in Walnut, $1,087.16 in San Dimas, and $1,085.79 in Pomona. A homeowner in El Segundo will pay $670.86 on a $30,000 home.

Although Claremont is the city with the highest tax rate in the county, it is surpassed by three unincorporated communities: Westlake Village, $16.1744, Willowbrook, $16.1373, and Calabasas, $16.0279.

Among the unincorporated communities, Diamond Bar has a rate of $13.7170, and Rowland Heights has a levy of $12.6859.

The total tax rates include claims levied by the county, the cities, the schools and special district.

County officials said El Segundo's taxes are low because the city has a large number of industries which offset the need for residential taxes. But the tax rate of the City of Industry, also an industrial area, which also has a very broad industrial base, is $13.0582.

Pomona council moves ahead with plan to prosecute lawyer

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Pomona City Council Monday night approved the hiring of an outside attorney for the purpose of prosecuting Stephen Silver, attorney for the Pomona Police Association, on a misdemeanor charge of disrupting the council meeting of Aug. 18.

By a 4-1 vote the council approved an agreement with Pomona lawyer Raymond Youngquist. It calls for a $5,000 retainer fee and $2,500 when the matter comes to trial, plus an additional $2,500 if a second trial is necessary.

Councilman Adrian Wright voted against hiring Youngquist, citing the same reasons he had a week earlier in voting against prosecuting Silver.

"It won't serve any purpose. We'll gain nothing by it," he said.

Silver is accused of deliberately disrupting the Aug. 18 council meeting while protesting a council action in relation to the troubled police pay negotiations.

The District Attorney's Office later refused to prosecute Silver, leading to last week's action by the council directing City Atty. Patrick Sampson to prosecute Silver under powers granted by the City Charter.

Sampson backed the hiring of Youngquist since he, Sampson, was present at the Aug. 18 meeting and may have to appear as a witness.

The city's main piece of evidence in the matter is expected to be the tape recording of the meeting, which is routinely made at all council meetings.

In other business, the council received a report from a number of representatives of the Southern California Rapid Transit District about the new bus lines, which are to begin operation in Pomona on Jan. 1.

The major transfer points as described by the RTD spokesman will be at Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard, Garey and Holt avenues, and Holt Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard.

The RTD officials said the new bus lines will double the bus mileage in Pomona and vastly improve the RTD service.

The council members, however, were unanimously silent in response to such claims.

Last week the council endorsed legislation that would withdraw Pomona from RTD.

Private paramedics to address Rotary

Kurt Latipow and Steve Williams, members of the paramedic unit of Cole Shaefer Ambulance Service, Pomona, will discuss "Paramedia in Private Ambulance" when they appear before the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at Castaway Restaurant.

2 suffer broken bones in local traffic crash

A Pomona man suffered a broken vertebra early Monday morning in one of two traffic accidents in Pomona which resulted in injury to five persons.

Thomas Garcia, 1406 N. White Ave., suffered the fracture when the car he was in slammed into a street light standard along Garey Avenue south of Franklin Avenue. He was reported in fair condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The driver, John Edmond Salassi, 19, 845 W. Bonita Ave., Claremont, suffered a broken right leg and was released after treatment at the hospital. He told police that the accident occurred when he fell asleep at the wheel.

Three persons were injured Monday evening in a three-car collision at the Corona Expressway and Mission Boulevard. One driver, Dennis Moore, 21, 1696 S. Waters St., Pomona, was taken to County-USC Medical Center for treatment of a cerebral concussion. His passenger, Yvonne Gregory, 22, 578 Curran Place, Pomona, was released after treatment for cuts at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The other driver, Michael Gass, 32, 2374 S. Park Ave., Pomona, suffered a facial injury and was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Fontana.

Puppet making to benefit kids

A workshop on making puppets from ordinary household items will be held Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona.

Puppets made at the workshop will be used in the center's Early Childhood Health Education program.

Persons attending are asked to take scraps of material, scissors, cereal and gelatin boxes, cardboard, stretch stockings, felt pens, yarn, magazines or used women's hose.

Montclair bicyclist hit by car

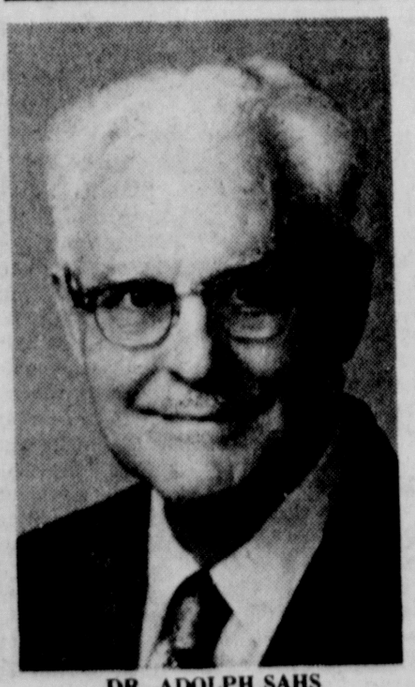

A 12-year-old Montclair boy was injured Monday evening when his bicycle was struck by a car on Sixth Street and Mountain Avenue in Ontario, police reported.

George Stewart Van Lingen of 4543 San Jose St., was listed in fair condition this morning at Montclair Doctors Hospital with injuries of the head and legs.

Police said the youth rode his bicycle south across Sixth Street and was struck by a left-turning car driven by Kimberly Sue Howard, 18, of 537 Richland Ave., Ontario.

Two persons were treated and released from Ontario Community Hospital after a two-car collision Saturday at Mission Boulevard and Euclid Avenue in Ontario.

Eva Marie Loveless, 35, Garden Grove and a passenger in her vehicle, Isabelle Beaver of Costa Mesa, were injured when their car collided with a second car driven by Victor Morales Munoz of 826 W. Second St., Pomona. Munoz was not injured.

DR. ADOLPH SAHS

Public asked to hear talk on strokes

"Stroke — A Preventive Disease" will be the topic for a medical meeting open to the public on Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's Pitzer Auditorium.

Dr. Adeolph Sahs, national chairman of the U.S. Stroke Facilities and professor emeritus of neurology at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, will be the speaker at the meeting.

Dr. Sahs has authored over 95 publications of neurological subjects in his lifetime and is the co-author of "Grinkers," a textbook of neurology.

Encouraging the general public to attend the meeting, Dr. Edward D. Sainfeld, chairman of the Stroke Committee at PVCH, said, "Stroke is a major health problem that accounts for over 200,000 deaths a year in the United States."

Dr. Sainfeld added that if a stroke does not end in death for the individual, it does result in disability and suffering for years to come.

Following Dr. Sah's talk, he and a panel of specialists from the PVCH medical staff will be available to answer questions from the audience.

Since space is limited, the public is asked to call the hospital for a reservation. The phone number is 623-8756, extension 2168.

Year-round school election is tabled

Chino school trustees postponed action again Monday night on whether to call an election to settle the year-round school controversy.

The board unanimously tabled consideration of a motion to place "mandatory" year-round school on the March 2 ballot. Trustees made no comment, but promised to consider the issue again on Nov. 25.

Board members have been arguing lately over the question of scheduling an election to allow residents to vote "yes" or "no" on YRS.

Board President Augustine Tapia said that because of an agenda loaded with important items, he suggested postponing the YRS issue. The other trustees agreed.

In other action, the board authorized notifying Deputy County Counsel Craig Jordan of intent to sell $2,675,000 worth of bonds, so he can prepare a resolution and terms of the sale.

The sale would be part of $8.5 million in bonds approved by voters Nov. 4. Supt. Royce Lapp explained that because of the district's bonding capacity, it cannot sell more than $2,675,000 in bonds this year.

"We're limited by law because we already have bonds outstanding in the amount of $11,430,000," he said.

RTD studies route expansion to soothe a ruffled Claremont

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Rapid transit district officials plotted for Claremont City Council members Monday night four new routes which will traverse the city if they are approved, but cautioned that a target date of getting the routes started in January "appears ambitious."

In October the council voted to request legislation which would allow Claremont to "disassociate" itself from RTD. Council members complained that RTD had not given the city its money's worth in service.

Stephen T. Parry of the Southern California Rapid Transit District planning department told the council that the city's present route 60G is 2.9 miles through the city and represents 32,000 miles annually.

But the projected routes represent 11.7 one-way route miles in the city or 283,153 annual miles and a 900 per cent increase, he said.

Parry mentioned these Proposals:

—Two loop routes with buses running every 20 minutes covering Garey Avenue, Foothill Boulevard, Mountain Avenue, Base Line Road and Claremont Boulevard.

—A third route every 20 minutes along Arrow Highway to Mills Avenue.

—A fourth route which begins in Diamond Bar, runs through Pomona, to Bonita Avenue, Indian Hill Boilevard, and Sixth Street to Claremont Boulevard.

Parry said that stops would be made wherever practical.

He explained that RTD will be working with San Bernardino Associated governments (SANBAG) and the West Valley Transit Service Authority to make an interface across the county line.

He stressed that RTD is responsible only for Los Angeles County.

Albert Reyes Jr., community relations representative for RTD, told the council that bus routes will be placed where they will do the most for the public.

He explained that the proposed bus routes in Claremont will be recommended to the RTD board of directors Nov. 19, but said that the target date of January for starting the routes "appears ambitious."

"We may not implement them right away," he said.

"In no way do the proposed bus routes cover the city," said Mayor Bertye Smith. "They are much better than we have, since we have nothing."

Councilwoman Claire McDonald told the RTD officials it would make more sense to use mini-buses carrying 10 to 12 passengers.

Parry replied that RTD will experiment with different sizes of buses, and explained that mini-buses are more expensive to maintain than the larger buses.

He said the bus industry is designing small coaches, but they are not bus-type vehicles.

He explained that buses running in Claremont will be operating 12 to 16 hours a day.

Mrs. McDonald said she feels smaller buses would be better during the energy crisis.

Council members questioned the proposed routes covering Claremont Boulevard, where there is little demand.

The 'Halloween massacre'

They immediately dubbed it the "Halloween massacre" — President Ford's firing of Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and CIA Director William E. Colby.

But about the only thing in common between this sudden cabinet shakeup and President Nixon's dumping of Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, among others, two years ago was that it occurred on a weekend.

By ordering the famous "Saturday night massacre" Richard M. Nixon sealed his own eventual doom. It is extremely doubtful if Gerald Ford's reshuffling of one cabinet and two advisory posts, the other being Henry Kissinger's seat on the National Security Council, will even be remembered by many Americans when they go to the polls next year, much less influence their voting.

Congressional Democrats continue to try to make the most of the matter, however, most notably Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), like Schlesinger one of the capital's leading advocates of a strong national defense and of a tough stand against Moscow and thus a skeptical critic of the detente politics of Secretary of State Kissinger.

Colby's going had been expected, although not quite so soon, and was probably inevitable because of a continuing string of embarrassing and damaging revelations about the U.S. intelligence gathering establishment.

But it is Jackson's view, shared by an unknown number of others, that Kissinger was really behind the firing of Schlesinger because of the latter's refusal to fall in line on such matters as strategic arms limitation talks with the Russians. Kissinger's relinquishing his post as White House national security advisor is said to be meaningless since his place will soon be taken by his own close deputy, Air Force Lt. Gen. Bruce Scowcroft.

"The last vestige of disent may be wiped out," Jackson said. "Dissent to Dr. Kissinger, I mean."

What the senator is saying, in effect, is that President Ford and everyone in his administration are little more than yes men to Henry Kissinger — an allegation which, if true, Americans would certainly want to weigh very heavily in the election scales next year.

There are numerous other indications, however, that Kissinger is hardly the power behind anybody's throne, if he ever was. Newsweek magazine quotes "sources close to the President" as saying the warmth has gone out of the relationship between the President and the secretary and that, although he has no intention of doing so, the President would not hesitate to get rid of Kissinger if he decided he needed to.

It is inevitable too, that after a year in office, Gerald Ford is feeling more independent of Kissinger and more sure of himself in foreign affairs, which has been almost the personal province of every chief executive since F.D. Roosevelt.

The President may simply believe that the Kissinger approach to relations with the Soviet Union is the correct one and that the Schlesinger hard-line approach had not only been overtaken by events but was hampering his relations with Congress. Schlesinger's recent passionate denunciation of the "deep and save cuts" the House proposed making in the defense budget were not exactly the kind likely to win friends and influence legislators on Capitol Hill.

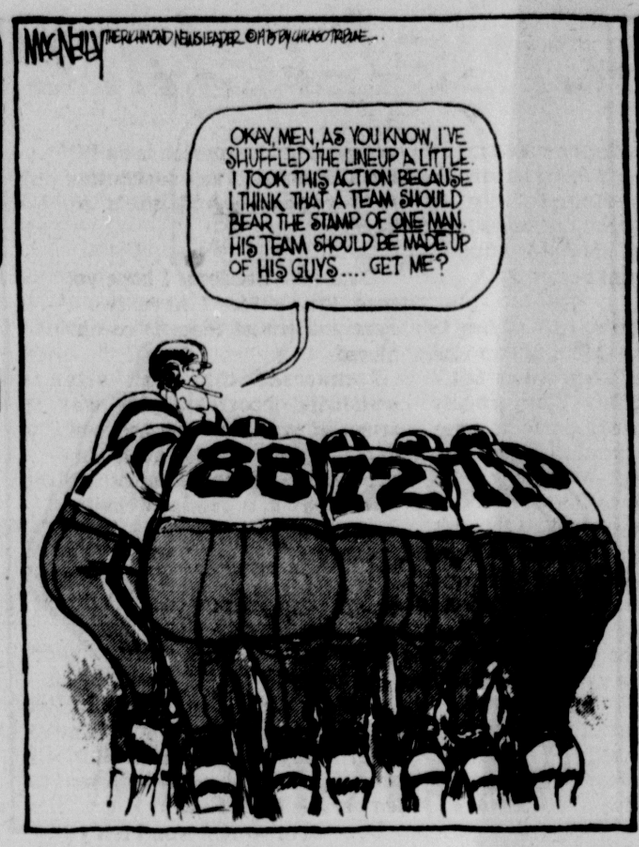

History may have to decide in the end who was right — Schlesinger or Kissinger. But President Ford has made it abundantly clear which philosophy he, at least, believes history will vindicate.

Publish the names

Dear Editor:

I am returning your editorial on crime in hopes that it will help reduce the crime rate.

I believe that the "Spotlight on Crime" should continue to be published, and I also believe that the names of the young hoodlums arrested should be published.

Why protect those under the age of 18. If they are big enough to commit crimes they certainly are big enough to take the punishment.

I am a widow. I have reported to the police that my flowers have been stolen off my front porch. Some one has tried twice to steal my mail box. It seems as though it's the victim who has to pay the price while the young criminal is protected to the extent that his name can't even be published.

I feel that as long as we are protecting the criminal we will always have a high rate of crime. Please write an editorial about the publication of juvenile offenders' names and see what kind of public response you get. — Mrs. F.S.

We've all been touched

Dear Editor:

I'm standing up and hoping you count me. I have lived in this valley since 1938. I'm not exactly old now but to tell you the way I remember Pomona would make it sound so.

We used to drive 2nd Street on hot summer days. Go to midnight previews at the Fox. Take the dog for a walk on cool autumn nights and leave my baby out in the front yard in the playpen for him to talk to the neighbors, and the passersby to tell me how cute he was.

My baby is now 21 years old and that Pomona is gone. I'm tired of going to Montclair Plaza to shop. I would rather shop downtown Pomona. I'm tired of worrying about my kids going to the show in Pomona and getting hassled. I'm tired of not being able to comfortably make an appointment with any doctor or dentist in town without worrying whether I'll get mugged or not.

We have all been touched in the valley by what has been happening in Pomona and would like to see it stopped. — Mrs. F.C.

Fearsome times

Dear Editor:

I do not think the Progress Bulletin should be criticized for printing crime news in Pomona. One only needs to live here and without even reading the paper should be aware of the high rate of crime in every neighborhood. We are living in fearsome times and ignoring the fact will not make it go away.— Vanna Whinnery

More Crime News

Dear Editor:

I feel that you do not put enough of the crimes in the paper. As a widow who has two women living with her, I am grateful to learn from the paper what is going on and to be on the alert. We just cannot go on with our heads in the sand thinking these bad things will just go away.

If Pomona would look to God for help it would certainly help. Thanks for printing what you have and if I could be of any help, I would be most eager to do so. — Mrs. C.C.V.

P.S. It makes me ill to go to the downtown mall. I have lived in Pomona since 1929 and often think back how it used to be. I pray that the stores will again be opened and very busy.

New York's dilemma

Dear Editor:

With all that has been written in recent weeks about federal aid for New York City certain important facts about this issue have been largely ignored.

It should be remembered that with considerably less fanfare 62 cities in the United States defaulted on financial obligations between 1940 and 1960. Another 114 municipalities defaulted during the 1960's.

When municipal bankruptcy has occurred, the courts have assumed jurisdiction, made financial decisions, and rescheduled the payment of debts. And this is what would happen in New York.

Municipal employees would be paid, although there would be some job loss; vital city services would be maintained, although some services would be cut back; and bond holders would be compensated, although there would be delay and a loss of some percentage of investment.

One has to feel sympathy for the plight of the bond holders. But it should be kept in mind that bonds, even municipal bonds, have never been considered risk free investments. They offer interest and tax incentives which make them more appealing than savings accounts. But, unlike savings accounts, they are not guaranteed by the federal government.

We read that, if Congress fails to act, the basic form of all municipal financing will be endangered. The reverse is true. Financial support specifically voted by Congress for New York City would seriously corrupt the municipal bond market everywhere in the United States by implying a federal guarantee of all such bonds.

Moreover, just last month the State of Maryland sold $85.8 million worth of bonds at the lowest net interest cost in two years. If the New York situation were going to disrupt the bond market, the disruption would have occurred when the city's insolvency became publicly known.

In my opinion what the city of New York is really after is a permanent federal subsidy. The city's financial problems cannot possibly be solved with just a loan guarantee.

City revenues will fall $1.2 billion short of anticipated expenses from December through March of next year even if all interest payments and the repayment of all debts which have become due are rescheduled.

Considering the erosion of the tax base of New York City as a result of the continuing policy of rent controls (combined with the apparent unwillingness of New York State to increase taxes), we must presume that if the federal government guarantees New York's loans, we will eventually have to pay them.

There has been much talk from major bankers about a national, or even international financial panic if New York City defaults on its bonds. Mayor Beame has said the city will have to close down. Gov. Carey has suggested that federal troops would be needed to keep order.

These, of course, are the statements of interested parties, all of whom have both an acute public relations sense and a great deal to lose, if the city should be compelled to default and, thus, be forced into receivership.

My belief is that Congress, which has put the nation another $72 billion into the red this year alone, should avoid taking responsibility for debts which are not of its own making. And, if New York City goes into bankruptcy in December, we could consider a limited post-default aid program which could be worked out with the federal bankruptcy court.

Such a course of action would have the added advantage of putting Buffalo, Detroit, Newark and other cities which are now or have recently been in serious financial trouble, on notice that federal revenue sharing has its limits. — Alphonzo Bell, United States Congressman

Can't believe crime

Dear Editor:

I have grown up in Pomona Valley. I cannot believe the crime. I have a young daughter. I don't want her growing up around this crime. I am a concerned citizen.

If there is anything I can do, get in touch. We need to bring the community to attention to get people concerned that this is their city too. When I read your article, I was proud that you people are trying. — Stephanie Standifer

No respect for law

Dear Editor:

I am sending in the editorial and we are with you one hundred percent. Surely there must be some way that the streets, people and houses can be safe again. Personally I feel all the riffraff is coming into Pomona with no respect for law and order, in fact authority of any kind. Pomona is certainly going to the dogs fast. Property values are at the lowest they have ever been.

I hope you have some magic at your fingertips for so far all else seems to have failed. Whatever your plan is to clean and protect Pomona, I hope sincerely that you are successful. I do feel we have a very good police force but they couldn't possibly cover all the crime in Pomona. — Mrs. P.S.

Staying the tide

Dear Editor:

You have done a fine job in reporting about crimes in Pomona. You will not "make crimes go away" by not reporting them in your newspaper. Keep up the good work!

I attend Pomona Public Schools (Washington, Fremont and the old Pomona High School) and graduated from the local colleges in Pomona and S. California. I remember the orange groves, peaceful rural environment and downtown Pomona — as it was — complete with Main Street and busy shoppers scurrying about!

This is all gone. Perhaps this was Pomona's finer days. However, it need not be. Why has downtown Pomona become a ghost town? Why has the crime rate risen to such horrendous proportions? Perhaps both the physical and social environment contribute to the high crime rate. You will have to analyze the problem first, and then find some workable positive solutions.

Some suggestions for solutions might be complete community cooperation in reporting crimes. Punish the law-breaker and not the victim or witness. Discipline in Pomona Public Schools—like it or not, there is no substitute for proper discipline. Do not restrict the teachers by forcing more permissiveness in classrooms and the home by court rulings, school board members, school administrators and other special interest groups. Work with the police and not against.. And crack down on those who woefully break the law — including juveniles.

One last note. If something is not done to stay the increasing tide of crime—woe to Pomona. — Ray Duncan

Followup on crimes

Dear Editor:

I, as a concerned citizen, wholeheartedly support the reporting of the "Spotlight on Crime" stories in your newspaper as these stories are facts that cannot be ignored.

I also strongly feel a followup story regarding these crimes is equally if not more important as it shows the progress being accomplished by the police department. Point of reference being the progress by the police department regarding the search for the killer of Mrs. Van Klavern and the attacker of Mrs. Lantz. These crimes have been committed; nothing can change that.

Granted your reporters do not make up the stories that "spotlight on crime", but they certainly can make it their business to report on follow-up police progress whether it be negative or positive. This you owe concerned citizens subscribing to your newspaper. — Mrs. Bruce O. Lensch, Chino

Just in jest

Happy days may be here again! Prosperity may be just around the corner! And all because of the once spurned $2 bill.

In the old days we thought $2 bills were unlucky. In fact, they were so unpopular with most Americans that the government monetary experts ordered them discontinued. However, with printing and paper costs what they are today, our government economists have now decided we can no longer afford to give in to that bad luck superstition.

So they have announced that $2 bills will be reissued and put in general circulation starting next April 13. In this way, they figure, they will be effecting great savings since it will take only half the amount of paper and half the printing time that would be required to issue a sufficient quantity of $1 bills to meet current purchasing and change making needs. Unfortunately though, since the $2 bill is now worth only about what the $1 bill was back there when the $2 bill was discontinued, the average American citizen will still be fighting a money losing battle.

—However, isn't it nice to learn our expert government economists can now proudly point out that they have finally found the way to profit by adversity? Who knows? Those $2 bill savings may be the financial stroke of genius that will eventually balance the budget.

Surgery is safer in Illinois

Surgery is safer in Illinois. Surgical patients are less likely to develop post-transfusion hepatitis — 80% less likely — than in other states.

Why? A blood transfusion at best is a form of Russian roulette. The blood itself may be contaminated. The most frequent contaminant is the virus of serum hepatitis.

The more blood the postsurgical patient requires, the higher the odds that one of those pints will be polluted. And when the blood comes from skid row the risk is multiplied.

Twenty years ago a surgeon at the University of Chicago, Dr. J. Garrott Allen, urged the state of Illinois to label each unit of blood by marking it with big block letters: "Purchased Blood" or "Blood From Volunteer Donor."

Eventually, in 1972, Illinois did enact a blood-labeling law. Since then, Illinois doctors, nurses, patients and family can know what they're getting:

Donor blood — more likely to be infected with hepatitis. Since enactment of that law, Oct. 1, 1972, the number of cases of post-transfusion hepatitis in Illinois have diminished by almost 80%!

Dr. Allen, now at Stanford University, has prevailed on the California Legislature to pass a similar law. But, by one state at a time, this process of enlightenment is so tedious, so time-consuming, that thousands of Americans are suffering hepatitis and some are dying — needlessly.

And doctors, denied any knowledge of the purity of the blood they are using, risk malpractice lawsuits — unnecessarily. The obvious shortcut is a national blood-labeling law.

As of April of this year there is an American Blood Commission in Washington, D.C. One of its purposes is to police on a national scale the supply, collection, distribution and quality of blood for medical care.

Some of the commercial blood banks are fighting this effort; they see a national blood policy as a threat to their commercial interests.

Some of the proprietary blood banks were among the earliest supporters of the American Blood Commission. But when it wanted to police blood quality, they suddenly saw it as a threat to their commercial blood banks.

Conservatively, the Illinois blood-labeling law has saved 400 lives a year plus countless thousands of damaging cases of chronic hepatitis. Procrastination is tragic; obstruction is criminal.

What we should be demanding is an "all-volunteer national blood program." The commercial stuff that's too frequently bought by the pint from diseased derelicts to be sold for a profit is requring doctors, blindfolded, to prescribe poison.

Americans will volunteer when they understand that it is in their own enlightened self-interest to do so. And it is.

For the record, I have seen studies from 10 VA hospitals and 15 other prestigious institutions supporting the Illinois experience.

Poor canary really stuck

DEAR DR. MILLER: The shop where I bought this confounded canary won't give my my money back. I made a mistake, I guess, when I admitted the bird was still singing. They said that's all they guaranteed it for. It has a sore foot, but they said they didn't guaranteed it to be a dancer, too. Very funny. Aren't they liable, or am I stuck? — S. G.

DEAR S. G.: The poor canary's the one who's really stuck if he's waited all this time for help with his sore foot. That's the first priority. The singer vs. dancer disagreement should be settled afterward by arbitration, attorney, Better Business Bureau, or whatever. From a practical standpoint, an avian with an aching foot isn't like to sing too long, either . . . why should he?

DEAR DR. MILLER: With increasing frequency, usually after he's weighed himself, my husband goes into the one-day-a-week starvation diet speech. Quote: He's going to lock up the kitchen one day a week and nobody, our dog Jingo included, will get a bite of food that day. Resting the gut is good for all of us. Unquote. I know Jingo won't buy it, but should he? Is resting the gut once a week really a good idea? —D. E.

DEAR D. E.: A once-weekly countdown to Calories Zero could physiologically benefit a feline who's fared too well on calories for the other six days. Still, giving the gut a 24-hour no lunch break can be psychologically unsound and can result in the starved gut's owner devouring anything from toilet paper to potted palms. Preferably, preventing overloading of the gut six days a week will eliminate the need for keeping it completely empty on the seventh. At this point the odds of the zero ration regime ever being implemented are probably too remote to justify Jingo's concern, anyway.

ANTI-ANIMAL ANTIFREEZE

Admittedly, antifreeze belongs in your car's radiator. It definitely doesn't belong in small spills on your garage floor or in opened, accessible cans which your pet might reach. The ethylene glycol, which is the standard antifreeze ingredient, can and does kill many pets yearly by causing extensive kidney damage. Whether the antifreeze is consumed via a taste test of an opened container or a lick from the paws because a puddle of it has been stepped in, the effect can be equally deadly. Don't allow animals and antifreeze to mix.

Flea Fighters

Better late than never. You should already have the battle won, or at least be winning it, but if you've neglected till now to cope with your cat's and dog's fleas, do battle at once. Consider the critters can be responsible for tapeworms and varying infections, a wide variety of skin diseases can cause, in numbers, anemia because they are bloodsuckers (flea manure is simply blood) and can make life completely miserable for your pets and perhaps you. Fleas have had all summer to multiply at a geometric rate and reach their greatest concentration this time of year. For at the very least the comfort of your pets, keep that flea population down, preferably to zero.

For Wednesday, Nov. 12

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you let your hunches govern you today they could get you into trouble. Be logical. Deal only in facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful this evening whom you take into your confidence. Something you want kept secret you may tell to the wrong party.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You know what you should be doing today, yet you're apt to be lazy and not put forth the necessary effort to achieve your goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Individuals who are performing work or service for you today should not be left to their own devices. Supervision is a must.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Live well within your means today. Don't buy anything on speculation, hoping to cover it later with anticipated funds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others will take promises you make to them seriously today, even if you don't. Be careful or you'll get yourself into a bind later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If commercial dealings today drag on, you'll lessen your position by making unnecessary concessions. Wrap things up quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your extravagant whims are likely to get the better of you today. Stay away from shops that have goodies you can't afford.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't make sacrifices today for one who does not deserve it. Let this person stand on his own two feet for a change.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your attention span is limited today. Get mental chores out of the way early, while your mind is fresh and alert.

AQUARIUS ((Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have a little surplus set aside, it's best not to talk about it in front of a friend who is always in need of a loan.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're likely to do something silly this evening, despite your better judgment. It could reflect poorly on your image.

Your Birthday Nov. 12

There will be a good market for your creative talents and ideas this coming year. Pursue some form of artistic endeavor, if not as a vocation at least as an avocation.

Ann Landers

Tell your son — either, or

Dear Ann Landers: The problem — as it exists:

Our son, 19, went to college overseas last year. His girl, 18, joined him at midterm.

Eyewitness reports: Twosome inseparable all semester. Son's grades dropped from A's and B's to C's and F's. School sent probation letter regarding low grades. Son changed campuses this fall. When we learned the girl planned to follow, we phoned her parents and said, "Our son's education is of utmost importance. Please send your daughter to another school." They were furious.

Of course the boy and girl are together again. Question: How far can we go in our demands? If our son's grades are poor at semester's end, can we insist that the girl's parents send her elsewhere? Should we tell our son that if his grades aren't decent we will refuse to pay for his education and he'll have to take a job?

Your opinion is requested. — Suffering In Sunsville

Dear Suff: You cannot demand anything of the girl's parents. They have a right to send their daughter to any school they choose.

You can, however, inform your son that you will no longer support his education if he can't make respectable grades. A college education is a privilege — and a darned expensive one these days. A student who goofs off is squandering money shamelessly and his parents should tell him — either, or. And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing to comment on the letter from the woman who was "abnormally tall." She was married to an "abnormally tall" man and was afraid to have children because they might look like giraffes. She's got to be crazy to worry about such things.

First of all, I'm 5-feet-10 and I don't consider myself a freak, although I am taller than most girls in my class. My mother taught me to stand straight and be proud of my height. Too bad the young lady who wrote didn't have a mother as smart as mine.

I hope you will print my letter for the benefit of all tall people. If they feel good about themselves, the battle is won. — Above The Crowd

Dear A.T.C.: Nice of you to give your mom the credit — and of course she deserves it.

A note to all you tall gals out there who are wearing flats and scrunching down trying to look shorter. Did you see that the recently crowned Miss America is an 18-year-old Skidmore college sophomore who is 5-feet-10½? And she's a real beauty!

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you can read this letter. I have two black eyes and one of them is completely closed.

I married this man after a whirlwind courtship. He was so sweet to me I was shocked when he damaged my bridgework on our honeymoon. I spent most of my afternoons in a dentist's chair.

We've been married four months and he has knocked me down three times, dislocated my shoulder and cost me over $400 with the dentist. I've had to buy special makeup to cover the black eyes.

Please give me some advice, but DON'T tell me to leave him. I could never bring myself to do it. He's wonderful except when he loses his temper. — Love Him

Dear Love: O.K. I won't tell you to leave him. Stay with Mr. Wonderful until he scrambles your brains and sends you to the hospital. You must enjoy being beaten up — so accept the fact and wear a crash helmet when around your beloved. It might help cut down on the doctor bills.

Everybody apologizes for car

Years ago, I stopped apologizing for the condition of my house. Those who knew me understood why I had a basketball in my bathroom and those who didn't know me didn't want to know they really saw it.

I still indulge myself in the great American pastime, the making-excuses-for-the-condition-of-your-car number.

I have never climbed into a car in my life that the driver wasn't ready with an alibi. Everyone does it. A few weeks ago I entered a car that had nothing in it but a piece of lint and an umbrella and the owner turned ashen and said, "I must apologize. We have children."

"No need to apologize," I said. "What you do on your own time is your business."

"I mean the car," he said.

"If my car was this clean, I'd turn it into a mobile X-ray unit."

I drive a 1971 Dirtmobile and frankly I'm running out of excuses.

My husband opened the door on the passenger side a few weeks ago and a potato rolled out.

"What happened?" he asked.

"Would you believe we're decorating?"

"This is disgusting! Why do I smell onions?"

"Because the ashtrays are full and they overpower the pickles."

"What is that beneath your accelerator?"

"A tennis ball."

"Why is there an umbrella fully opened in the back seat? Don't you know it brings bad luck?"

"We noticed that when we couldn't get it down and we couldn't get it out of the car."

"Is this dashboard full of dust?"

"We like to think of it as a message center."

"When was this car last serviced?"

I opened the door and read, "MCMLXXII."

"This is a real dump. Stacks of newspapers, ball gloves, candy wrappers, books, thermoses, old gym clothes, empty bottles, a sleeping bag, bicycle pump and not one inch of space on the floor to put your feet. Why?"

I looked over at him as his hairy legs dangled awkwardly from the car seat. "How about, you can't get decent help these days?"

'Metabolics' tells of nutrition

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you recommend a good book on the subject of human nutrition? I have had some college chemistry and biology, but am not a doctor. I am interested in finding out what foods have what nutrients in them and what combinations of meat, milk, vegetables, fruits and grains give a balanced diet. For example, will green beans and broccoli give a person all the nutrients he should get out of the vegetable group?

I have talked to two doctors lately and neither could remember a book on nutrition to recommend to me.

DEAR READER — You can't go wrong by learning the facts about nutrition and applying them to your daily living. After all, what you eat is of vital importance to your health.

There are a lot of books that are based on fads and many of them I consider harmful, because they include a lot of statements that are not based on basic chemistry and scientific facts, but rather represent someone's uninformed opinion. The textbooks on physiology, biochemistry and medicine your doctors are familiar with are too technical for the public.

If you want to read a book that will tell you in simple terms what all your common foods contain and how the body handles food you want to read my book "Metabolics, Putting Your Food Energy to Work," published by Harper and Row.

This book is comprehensible and it uses simple blocks to represent the various atoms that make up your food. If you can build words with letter blocks you can understand it. Also by giving you the actual chemical structure of your foods in simple block terms and showing you how your body processes them, you'll have a chance to deal with facts instead of fads.

There is a complete discussion on carbohydrates, fats, proteins, alcohol and how your body converts proteins to carbohydrate or to fatty acids to use them for energy rather than to build body proteins.

When you see how your body works you will understand how people get fatigue from both low blood sugar and diabetes. In both instances the cells are not getting vital glucose to provide needed body energy.

"Metabolics" also shows you where vitamins enter into the process of releasing energy from your food. Based on sound chemical facts you can appreciate why you need vitamins and why an excess of vitamins may not help you at all. You'll get a picture of your body as a system to process food to release energy.

When you are through reading "Metabolics," you will be able to evaluate all those fad diets you see advertised with monotonous regularity. It explains how you lose that dramatic number of pounds when you first start on one, and why you get all of them back just as quickly when you return to normal eating. The book shows why those fad diets and excess calorie restriction can be harmful to your health.

Also "Metabolics" will give you the food lists you want for vitamins, minerals and amino acids from proteins, and show you how to plan a well-balanced, healthy diet for healthy living. And, it contains valuable information on how to sensibly control your weight, plus the reason why your muscle mass is important in making it possible for you to avoid obesity without making life miserable with a fad diet.

The weak two bid is not a panacea for all bidding ills. Most experts use it but those who do, don't feel that it is really important.

One advantage is that on occasion it gets the opponents too high.

West has a weak sort of weak two bid, but it does meet the requirements. Eight high-card points and a playable six-card suit. North has a fine double and East keeps up the attack by a jump to four hearts.

South doesn't really want to bid four spades. On the other hand, it would be sheer cowardice to pass so he bids it.

North really should pass, but he likes his hand and suspects skullduggery by the opposition. He Blackwoods his way to six.

There is no play for six. South has to lose a club and the ace of diamonds and will probably lose a trick to the queen of trumps.

Of course, North and South might get to that same slam after a pass by West. North would open one diamond; South would respond one spade and North might head for the stratosphere.

Instant replay on TV surprisingly has proved umpires and referees are far more often right than wrong in their play calls. In light of this, inquires a client, didn't the photo finish camera in horseracing prove the judges were more often right than wrong in naming winners? Certainly. Still, judges in 1935 before the camera acknowledged only 20 dead heats. But in 1938 after most tracks had cameras, the films recorded 264 dead heats. Clearly, thousands of close finishes had been miscalled, previously.

Dairy cows are the most efficient animals we have for converting grass and hay into wholesome milk.

A cow makes its milk in a baggy organ, called an udder, that hangs from the cow's stomach.

The nourishing materials from the cow's food are carried by her bloodstream to the udder, where special milk-producing cells turn the dissolved food materials directly into the rich milk we drink.

The cow cannot let her own milk run out. A dairy farmer must remove the milk by hand or with a milking machine that attaches to the fingerlike teats of the udder and draws the milk out by suction.

Several animals beside the cow furnish milk which people use for food. Dwellers in the deserts of Asia and Africa depend on the camel for milk, and Laplanders live on the milk of reindeer. People in many countries use goat's milk.

Water buffalo, yak, and sheep are other milk animals.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Robinson follows McKay's fortunes

Richard Perry new A.D.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California is counting on a former Oregon end, John Robinson, to replace a former Oregon halfback and bring further football glory to the Trojans.

Robinson, 40, whose career nearly parallels that of John McKay despite an intervening decade, will head the Southern Cal football fortunes in 1976 when McKay goes to the professional ranks.

Robinson, a former Southern Cal assistant coach, faces a tough assignment. He replaces a man who has coached more USC victories than any other and gone to the Rose Bowl on eight occasions, winning four.

One big difference is that Robinson is leaving the professional ranks with the Oakland Raiders, to return to the collegians. McKay is making his first try at the National Football League in coaching the new Tampa franchise that begins next year.

Also McKay, a halfback, played in the Cotton Bowl with Oregon in 1949 and Robinson, an end, was in the Rose Bowl in 1958. Oregon, with McKay, lost to Baylor, and Oregon, with Robinson, lost to Ohio State.

At USC, Robinson a somewhat surprise choice, starts his era following a winning coach. McKay to date has a 126-38-8 record with games against Washington and UCLA remaining. But after a 7-0 start this season, the Trojans lost to both California and Stanford after McKay announced his move to Tampa.

President John R. Hubbard of USC, in announcing the appointment of Robinson for 1976, also divided the duties that McKay has carried five years— football coach and athletic director.

Hubbard announced that Dr. Richard H. Perry, 46, a former head basketball coach at Long Beach State, will be the athletic director.

Perry, eight years on the USC faculty, will begin his new job immediately with no wait until McKay leaves.

Terms of the contracts with Robinson and Perry were not divulged although the football coach is believed to have at least a three-year agreement.

In announcing the new athletic director, Hubbard said, "It would be unfair to saddle any person coming in new with both positions. The athletic director job was filled first.

"Many problems lie ahead for intercollegiate athletics, such as federal intrusion and fiscal crises."

One of the "federal intrusions" to which Hubbard referred was Title IX, which requires an athletic setup for women similar to that for men.

Perry last year was head of the Academic Senate at USC, dealing with the faculty and Hubbard termed his appointee one of the university's most eminent scholars.

"How do you replace a legend?" was Perry's reaction to succeeding McKay.

Robinson said he considers himself a disciple of McKay, whom he has known for 20 years.

"I have been a tremendous admirer of his and believe in the type of football he has used. I like a wide open style of offense."

Robinson was an assistant in charge of the offensive backfield at USC from 1972 through 1974. During his tenure, the team posted a 31-3-2 record including three appearances in the Rose Bowl and two victories there.

He had coached at Oregon from 1960 through 1971 under Len Casanova and Jerry Frei. A freshman coach for his first three years, he was defensive backfield coach for the next three seasons. From 1966 through 1968, he was in charge of the Oregon offense.

"Needless to say, we checked all over the country for the judgement of people we respected in the naming of a coach," said Hubbard. "We arrived at a consensus, but I want to emphasize that I alone made the decision to select John Robinson."

Speculation had been that McKay assistants Dave Levy and Craig Fertig would inherit the two jobs. Ara Parseghian, former Notre Dame coach and Bear Bryant of Alabama also were mentioned.

But Hubbard said of Robinson: "As an ex-USC assistant coach for three years, he's familiar with the elements that make up the university. He has a rare combination of technical skills and human qualities. And I believe he has one of the best minds in football."

Robinson said he had asked all the USC assistants to stay with the new regime.

"I told them to go home and think it over," he explained.

But there is a solid possibility that McKay will take several of his assistants into the pro ranks at Tampa with him.

Les Perry bids adieu

Perhaps the biggest prep football story in the valley this weekend has nothing to do with the title chases in the various leagues or with the developing CIF playoff picture.

This story won't take place before thousands of screaming fans under the lights of a MSAC or Citrus Stadium. Outside of a few dozen spectators, not many will even be around to see this story take place.

But on Saturday afternoon, on a sleepy green pasture in Claremont, a coach, a formation and a legend will hang 'em up.

Webb School's Les Perry, dean of the local prep coaches with 28 years at the helm of the Gauls, will be calling it quits Saturday after the Webb contest with Brentwood. For Perry and his Gauls, those 28 years were marked with success and controversy, both centering around Perry's use of the supposedly outmoded single wing offensive attack.

Perry's squads, using that relic from the 1930's, rang up a 148-32-5 record in Les' 28 years of coaching. The Gauls, or rather the Golden Gauls (as they were called then) dominated the Arrowhead League standings for several years in the 1950's and 1960's, beating people with an offense which supposedly went out with the Model A.

Perry, a star gridder in his own right at Pomona College in the thirties, ran out of the single wing as a college player and carried the formation over to his coaching duties.

Kept single wing

He took over the head coaching job at Webb after being discharged from the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1947, and kept the single wing as the Gaul offensive formation in the face of scoffs and disbelief from other coaches and fans. All his teams did, as they say, is win.

"Yep, we are the last team in this area, if not the nation, to still use the single wing," Perry pointed out in reviewing 28 years of coaching. "Up until a few years ago both Glendale and Loyola highs used it, but they drifted away from it. I guess I was just a die-hard or something," joked the jovial skipper.

Apparently Saturday will be the single wing's swan song, as Perry figures the new coach will switch to a more contemporary and conventional formation.

"I don't know who will be hired to take my place, but this was the first year we had the junior varsity team running out of a T, so I guess that's a sign of the times.

"The single wing, obviously, is tough to coach to kids if they have been brought up on the more up-to-date stuff. But it's a heck of a formation, and it has the big advantage of not relying on a super talented kid at the quarterback spot."

Everybody played

Recalling his long tenure as Webb mentor, Perry notes that he really has no regrets about coaching the small, private Claremont school.

"Here every kid who wanted to play was able to do so. A lot of young men who would not have gotten the opportunity to play football at a larger high school played for me, and I'm glad they had that chance."

Perry found it impossible to single out one big thrill from all those years of coaching, but admits that the biggest pleasure was being able to have some "great young men" play for him.

Some of those now not-so-young men will be back Saturday afternoon to bid their old coach farewell, as that day will be Alumni Day at Webb. Considering the circumstances, it ought to be a memorable occasion.

Asked if he would miss coaching, Perry replied, "Of course, you have to miss something you've done for many years. It has been a lot of fun, that's for sure."

And would he change anything if he were just starting to coach the Gauls today?

"Yes," the veteran mentor replied without hesitation. "I don't think I'd have my team use the single wing."

Farewell Les, the local prep scene won't quite be the same without you.

Chiefs win 'fumblethon'

DALLAS (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs may not be Super Bowl material, as their rookie Coach Paul Wiggin claims, but they were All-National Football League recovering fumbles Monday night.

Kansas City and Dallas fumbled 12 times in their nationally televised stumblethon. The Chiefs got back three of their mistakes and pocketed all five of Dallas' gifts, cashing three of them into touchdowns.

The result was a 34-31 victory over the Cowboys and crewcut Wiggin found it all a little difficult to believe.

"We beat Dallas!...God darn...we beat Dallas...We beat Dallas..." he kept repeating.

Wiggin, acting at times almost like he had caught the winning touchdown pass himself instead of Ed Podolak, gushed, "I'm really excited about being part of this football team. This win probably is exciting as our win over Oakland."

Kansas City is now 4-4 and still alive in the American Conference Western Division, trailing Oakland by two games.

Dallas, 5-3 for the year, sank a game behind Washington and St. Louis in the National Conference East.

Wiggin, who was handpicked by owner Lamar Hunt to succeed veteran Hank Stram, said earlier in the week that Kansas City wasn't Super Bowl material or "I wouldn't have been hired."

However, Podolak shouted above the din of the Kansas City dressing room, "I don't think we're rebuilding! . . . we're contenders now."

Podolak scored touchdowns on runs of 1 and 11 yards in a 43-second span just before halftime and snared a five-yard scoring pass from Mike Livingston with 10:07 left to play for the game winner.

The lead changed hands like a National Basketball Association game with the ball caroming about on a perfectly dry night as though the players were soaked by a rain storm.

"Fumbles just flat beat us...I can't explain them...they just happen," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, a veteran of 16 NFL campaigns.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach's nine-yard touchdown run and a 31-yard Toni Fritsch field goal gave Dallas a 10-3 lead after Jan Stenerud's booming 51-yard three-pointer. Then strange things began to happen.

Preston Pearson of Dallas fumbled into the Cowboys' end zone and Chief defensive end John Matuszak claimed it for a touchdown.

"It's the first time I've fumbled in two or three years," moaned Pearson.

Staubach flipped a 15-yard touchdown pass to Golden Richards but Podolak countered with a one-yard touchdown run.

Rose Bowl chase

UCLA is in control

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA is now in control of its own Rose Bowl destiny and, says Coach Dick Vermeil, it's a good feeling.

The Bruins are the lone team in the Pacific-8 Conference that can win the title without any help. Only UCLA can go to the Rose Bowl by winning its two remaining games regardless of what happens to the other teams in the race.

California leads the Pac-8 standings at 5-1 and Stanford and UCLA are second at 4-1.

But because the Bruins have beaten both Stanford and Cal, Vermeil can say: "We are in charge of the Pac-8 right now."

UCLA has Oregon State and Southern Cal left to play while Stanford has Oregon and Cal. Cal has only Stanford left on its Pac-8 schedule.

Vermeil emphasized that being in command "doesn't mean we ARE going anywhere. But either one of those teams up north can win all their games and go no place."

Vermeil didn't mention rival USC. But the Trojans are 3-2 after losing to Cal and Stanford and would need to win their two remaining games while the rest of the league wound up in a tie for first in order to go to the Rose Bowl on the basis of the best overall season record.

The UCLA coach said Monday his players are beginning to sense the opportunity they have, and the chance they have to succeed.

"Maybe for the first time the squad feels it can do it. For a long time it's been 'maybe we can' but deep down they've thought about that other school 'cross town,'" said Vermeil.

"Now that they've (Southern California) lost a couple, it's 'By gosh maybe we really can go.'

"It's a good feeling."

The coach said his team is excited, morale is high and there is "an air of confidence— that maybe we are good enough. But maybe is a big word."

He said although the Bruins are gaining enthusiasm, "I'm not talking about yelling and screaming, false emotion."

Vermeil said he wants to maintain what he calls a "business-like approach"—not looking ahead, taking each game one-at-a-time, and hopefully improving each week.

After being upset by Washington, the Bruins came back and clobbered Oregon 50-17 Saturday and Vermeil sees that as another indication that UCLA has momentum going into the final two games.

And he said that realization of how important each game is should keep the Bruins from taking this Saturday's meeting with Oregon State lightly even though the Beavers have won only one game this season.

"We are in charge of the Pac-8 and for us to maintain control we have to win Saturday. If that isn't enough motivation we don't deserve to be in the position we are."

As for overconfidence, Vermeil said, "It won't be easy, it's never been easy. As soon as you think it is, that's when you get knocked off."

San Diego Sails next club to fold?

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Sails, the latest trouble spot in the American Basketball Association, may be ready to fold.

ABA owners will meet here today to decide what to do with the franchise which has failed to stimulate much interest in Southern California. The Sails have drawn a total of only 7,126 fans in three home dates this season.

Some ABA officials would rather operate with eight strong franchises than carry a weak one and the Sails have been weak since they came into the league in 1972 under the ownership of Dr. Leonard Bloom.

Dr. Bloom failed to meet league obligations and the ABA took over the club last February, then turned it over to local businessman Frank Goldberg in June.

Goldberg shook things up, changing the name to Sails and bringing in Bill Musselman from the University of Minnesota to coach. But the Sails have won just three of 11 outings this year and attendance has continued to sag.

Should the league decide to fold up the Sails, it will be the second ABA team to bite the dust this year. The Baltimore Claws were the first, closing down due to financial problems just four days before the season began.

If the San Diego franchise is dropped Sail players will most likely be distributed among the other clubs in a dispersal draft similar to the one held in the wake of Baltimore's demise.

Sagehens' Walt Ambord maintains humor

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Walt Ambord is a brave man.

Even though his Pomona-Pitzer football team is 0-7 for the season, Ambord bravely faces the jokes and quips at Monday's weekly football luncheons.

No matter how bad things have been for the Sagehen mentor, he somehow manages to maintain a keen sense of humor.

Pomona is coming off a typical 52-0 whipping at the hands of Redlands.

"We played about nine minutes of football at Redlands then we started to get ready for our next game," Ambord said at the luncheon held at The Castaway Restaurant.

The next game isn't just any game. The Sagehens will be hosting cross-campus rival Claremont-Mudd (3-3) Saturday afternoon in college football's most unique series.

As bad as Ambord had had it this season, he won't get any sympathy from Claremont-Mudd mentor John Zinda.

The Stags fell to Pomona, 33-22, last year and Claremont is currently on a two-game losing streak.

"We've been saving it all year for the Stags," Ambord quipped. "We'll try to hold the score down."

Seriously, the Sagehen coach added, "The Claremont game is always a good one because all of the players know each other. I feel Zinda has done an excellent job a Claremont. His team gives it 100 per cent and is well-coached."

As far as his team is concerned, "We would love to win this one. One of these days we're going to win 10 in a row. One of these days."

"It's one big family," Zinda said. "It's just like brothers playing each other so anything can happen. It's tough to know how our players will react."

Zinda admits he is nervous.

"I told our players there will be no pranks this year," he said. "We'll just show up on Saturday and go after me. Pomona has the Peace Pipe trophy now. We didn't like that feeling of losing last year."

Zinda said his team hans't been as sharp in recent weeks.

"I believe it's mainly a lack of concentration. At this time of year, the academic problems cut into the total effort our players can put into football."

Earning the Players of the Week awards were La Verne's Roy VanderKallen and Mt. San Antonio's Flavio Garcia. They will receive awards from Football Beverage Company.

VanderKallen ran for 100 yards on 15 carries and caught two passes for 30 yards and one TD in La Verne's 41-19 win over Occidental.

Garcia completed 23 of 39 passes for 271 yards in MSAC's 49-13 loss to top-ranked Orange Coast.

Quoting the coaches:

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We were prepared to play football against Occidental and did it. Quarterback Randy Brown demonstrated his ability and our defense came alive. Our punting game still isn't what I would like. We're looking forward to playing at Whittier. We're excited about the SCIAC race. We're very much aware that we're in the race. That's what the season is all about."

ANDY VINCI, Cal Poly: "We made two physical mistakes in the first quarter and gave North Texas State nine quick points. We finally settled down and gave them a game. We didn't get beat. We beat ourselves. It was the best total game we've played in my two years at Poly. After looking at the game, we have decided we want to play that type of opposition. Right now, we're trying to schedule Mississippi State next year at home. That's the way we have to go if we're going to make it economically. We visit Cal State Fullerton this week. Fullerton has improved each week."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "Our players have got a lot of experience this year in playing the likes of Orange Coast, Citrus, Golden West and Pasadena. At least we know a lot about good football teams. Orange Coast is an outstanding football team. There is no doubt about it. We close out the season against San Diego Mesa and Santa Ana. I can't see anyone who isn't tough in the South Coast Conference. Mesa is in the same boat we're in."

WILLIE RICHARDSON, Chaffey: "We couldn't stop all of Citrus' good people. We couldn't contain all of them all night. Center Dan Farris suffered a groin pull early in the game and his loss really hurt us. Injuries have hurt us and we don't have much depth. This week, we play San Bernardino Valley, which is an explosive team."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We were happy to beat Chaffey. It was a very emotional, hard-hitting game. We face Southwestern this week and they have some skilled people. I'm always afraid of people who can throw the ball well. We have to play well. We're proud of the statistic of allowing only 287 rushing yards in eight games. That averages only 35 yards a game. That's a damn good statistic."

Bowl picture cloudy

By Associated Press

Now that the National Collegiate Athletic Association has reinstated its restriction on bowl invitations, very few bids are likely to be handed out at the first opportunity anyway.

The respective bowl committees will fan out to college football games across the country Saturday. But instead of bearing invitations, in most cases they'll be traveling empty-handed.

However, one week later there may be a stampede to line up the best possible postseason attractions.

"It's very confused," one bowl spokesman told The Associated Press Monday. "The same teams are in the Orange, Cotton and Sugar Bowl pictures. And there are so many things to be decided."

Like the Big Eight championship between Nebraska and Oklahoma on Nov. 22, with the winner going to the Orange Bowl; the Southwest conference race to determine whether Texas A&M, Texas or Arkansas will be the host team in the Cotton Bowl, and the Big Ten (Ohio State-Michigan) and Pacific-8 scrambles to decide which also-rans will be grabbed by someone other than the Rose Bowl.

Out in Pasadena, the Rose Bowl is sitting pretty. They don't have to scout anyone since they automatically get the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs.

The other bowls are considering the following teams:

Orange: Big Eight champion (Nebraska or Oklahoma) vs. Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Southern California, Texas, Texas A&M.

Cotton: Southwest Conference champ vs. Alabama, Michigan, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Southern Cal. Two from that crowd also are Sugar Bowl possibilities, along with the loser of the Nov. 28 Texas-Texas A&M game.

Gator: Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State, Texas, Texas A&M.

Liberty: Arkansas, California, Georgia, Missouri, Navy, Oklahoma, Southern Cal, Tennessee, UCLA.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl: "We're looking at the same teams most of the other bowls are looking at," according to Weldon Humble, chairman of the selection committee. The Bluebonnet would love to have the Southwest Conference runner-up against Colorado.

Fiesta: Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Texas, Texas A&M, UCLA.

Sun: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Penn State, Pitt, Texas A&M, UCLA. Pitt would have received an invitation had the Panthers not lost to West Virginia last weekend and they could be right back in the picture by beating Notre Dame Saturday.

Peach: Arkansas, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, North Carolina State, Tennessee.

Tangerine: Miami of Ohio is in as the Mid-American Conference champion. Opponents under consideration are Colorado, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Navy, North Carolina State, Pitt, South Carolina and Tennessee.

An educated guess would be to look for the following:

—Alabama vs. Nebraska in the Orange Bowl if Nebraska beats Oklahoma. Otherwise, Alabama to the Sugar Bowl, Oklahoma against the Big Ten runner-up in the Orange and Nebraska to the Cotton. In addition, Field Scovell, chairman of the Cotton Bowl selection committee, says the weekend's rash of upsets put Notre Dame "rather strongly into things." Oklahoma will not go to the Cotton no matter what happens.

—Georgia or Florida as one of the Gator Bowl teams.

—Navy to the Liberty Bowl if the Midshipmen beat Georgia Tech on Saturday. The Liberty Bowl has been designated an official Bicentennial event and A.F. "Bud" Dudley, executive director, calls Navy "a glamor-Cinderella team which would go hand-in-glove" with the Bicentennial celebration.

Stags upset 'Hens, 2-0

The Claremont-Mudd soccer team surprised Pomona-Pitzer Monday afternoon at Parent Field in Claremont, blanking the Sagehen booters 2-0 before a big crowd.

The Stag victory avenged an earlier 1-0 defeat to P-P and netted the Stags a co-championship of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Association with the 'Hens. Both teams finished conference play with 11-1-0 records.

Furthermore, it took the Stags out of the usual NAIA "mini tournament" to determine which team will join the top three seeds, Westmont, USIU and Claremont-Mudd in the District finals next week.

Pomona-Pitzer now has to participate in the mini tournament and, if it wins there, will have to meet topseeded Westmont next week. The 'Hens had only to hold C-M to a one-goal margin in losing in order to bypass the mini tournament.

Pomona-Pitzer actually had the better of the statistics on the contest, with 19 shots on goal to Claremont's nine and 10 corner kicks to the Stags' four.

However, the Stags won the scoring battle. C-M took a 1-0 lead in the first half on John Pritzlaff's goal which was set up by an assist from Roberto Munoz. It was Pritzlaff's 23rd goal of the season as he continued to lead the Stags in scoring.

The second goal came midway through the second half, as Conrad Creasey headed in a shot past Sagehen goalie Brad Kraft after Randy Douglas had set up up with an assist.

That second score was the big one for C-M. In addition to assuring the victory, it gave the Stags a much better playoff situation. C-M outscored Pomona 2-1 in their two games, thus getting the seeding advantage.

The Stags will be seeded third in the playoffs, while Pomona-Pitzer will go in as the fourth ranked squad. Westmont is the top seeded team in the six-team playoffs.

"This was a big win for us," commented Stag coach Steve Davis. "Not only did it give us a co-championship, but a better chance of winning the District Three playoffs.

"We played extremely well, especially our goalie Peter Colius," Davis continued. "He's only a freshman but he did a heck of a job in shutting out Pomona. If I gave a game ball after the game, it would have to go to him."

"Right now I'm not sure who we will play in the playoffs but our opening game will be next Monday (Nov. 17). It looks like it will be USIU but I will know more about that Tuesday."

The District competition actually starts Wednesday, with Cal Lutheran playing the winner of the Azusa Pacific-UC San Diego game, which was played Monday night. The winner of Wednesday's contest will then be hosted by Pomona-Pitzer Saturday.

The District Playoffs begin Wednesday with the mini tournament.

Injured 49er okay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Francisco 49ers defensive back Ralph McGill has been suffering "a monstrous headache," but no apparent complications, a St. Vincent's hospital spokeswoman says.

McGill was hurt in Sunday's 49ers-Rams game when he tried to block a field goal attempt and was kicked in the head by Los Angeles' Tom Dempsey.

McGill, who had been taken from the field in an ambulance, has been moved from intensive care to a private room, Laura Tondreault, the hospital's director of public relations, said Monday.

"I visited with him," Miss Tonreault said, "and aside from the headache, he said he felt well. The doctor's prescription is rest, and the patient has decided that for the moment he will receive no calls and no visitors."

Field hockey win for Poly

The Cal Poly women's field hockey team downed local rival Mt. San Antonio College 4-3 Monday afternoon at MSAC's field.

Scoring the Poly goals were Cheryl Maslanka, Karen Celestino, Kathy Fredericks and Rachel Smith.

The Bronco women will now be out of action until next Wednesday (Nov. 19) when they will host UC San Diego at 3 p.m.

Kings' center used Karate exercises to heal injury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles' Vic Venasky is rather small and somewhat uncharacteristically mild-mannered for a professional hockey player.

But the Kings' National Hockey League foes might make a mental note not to make Venasky angry — he's taking karate lessons.

But the karate training is more for a therapeutic reason than one of self-defense.

Venaksy, a 5-10, 180-pound center, had suffered a groin injury late in the 1972-73 season and the promising rookie center out of Denver University saw his career go on the skids.

He spent most of the next two seasons in relative obscurity playing in the minors — and playing in pain.

But on the recommendation of Kings' trainer John Holmes, Venasky started doing exercises used in karate. Now he's healthy, as the exercises seemed to have stretched and strengthened the groin muscles that were injured.

Los Angeles team physician Dr. Vincent Carter said the type of injury Venasky suffered is becoming more common among athletes.

"The injury was where the abdominal muscles and the thigh muscles join the pelvis," Carter said. "A few years ago we were treating an athlete for the injury and a doctor from Italy, who specializes in treating soccer players, was visiting.

"He told us not to be surprised if it took two years to heal. He said it was common among soccer players."

Carter said former Laker Jim King and former King goaltender Wayne Rutledge are two athletes whose groin injuries took longer than two years to heal.

"When John showed me the exercises used in karate training, I told him to go ahead with Venasky," Carter said. "I think you have to give much of the credit for his complete recovery to the karate."

Venasky is used as a spot player by the Kings, whose regulars are Marcel Dionne, Juha Widing and Butch Goring.

But when the Kings go for a club record eighth consecutive home-ice victory tonight against the California Seals, Venasky will be ready, and at full speed, if he's called on.

"I owe it all to John Holmes for getting me to take karate lessons," Venasky said.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, — Defending champion Jimmy Connors defeated Poland's Wojicek Fibak 6-2, 7-6 in a firstround match in the Dewars Cup Tennis Championship.

NBA reduces Hawks' fine

NEW YORK (AP) — It hasn't been the most successful year for the Atlanta Hawks, but there was good news Monday.

The National Basketball Association's Board of Governors voted to reduce a fine levied against the Hawks for signing Julius Erving by $150,000.

Atlanta signed the star forward three years ago, ignoring the fact that he was drafted by the Milwaukee Bucks. Erving played two exhibition games with the club in 1972 but eventually wound up with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association.

Last June, the Board lowered the boom on the Hawks, ruling they had to pay the league $250,000 and the Bucks $150,000, in addition to surrendering their two second-round draft choices next year to Milwaukee. The Board also said that if Erving ever joins the NBA, he must go with Milwaukee.

But the Hawks, who lost both their top draft choices—David Thompson and Marvin Webster—to the ABA, have been suffering at the gate and so the Board decided they only have to pay the league $100,000 instead of $250,000.

The Board talked at length about the applications submitted by the nine ABA clubs who want to join to the NBA but didn't make any decisions, and NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien said there probably won't be any made for a while.

The Nets and Denver applied for membership in the NBA in September and everyone else joined them in October. The major stumbling block in any such an unofficial merger is a lawsuit filed by the NBA Players Association. The case is still pending but Judge Robert Carter, presiding in Southern District Court of New York, has issued a permanent injunction to prevent any merger. The case is expected to be tried next May, at the earliest.

O'Brien named a five-man advisory board to work with him on the case. The group is headed by chairman Bill Alverson of Milwaukee and includes Mike Burke of New York, Abe Pollin of Washington, Bill Wirtz of Chicago and Richard Bloch of Phoenix.

The meeting was to have lasted two days but was cut to one. In other developments:

—the commissioner announced the league's Player Relations Committee would meet with the players association soon to discuss the players contract which expired last June 1.

FLYING HIGH — This is a model of Leonardo da Vinci's flying machine with flapping wings, one of 25 models of the 15th Century artist-inventor's devices on exhibition at the Wignall Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College. Admission to the exhibit is free.

Gale back

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gale Sondergaard, who won the first Oscar awarded to a supporting actress, will play "The Elk Woman" in the United Artist western, "The Return of a Man Called Horse."

Miss Sondergaard won the award for "Anthony Adverse" in 1936, then played a series of femmes fatales until blacklisted from the movie industry for her political activities.

Clara Barton, founder of the U.S. Red Cross, was a patent examiner for more than five years.

Chaffey exhibiting models by da Vinci

"The Inventions of Leonardo da Vinci," a collection of models of the inventions of the 15th Century artist-inventor, is now on display at the Wignall Museum-Gallery of Chaffey College.

The exhibition, on loan from the IBM Corp. includes 25 models built from Leonardo's scientific and technical drawings. It will remain through Nov. 26.

Models in the show include both practical and theoretical devices. Among them are a paddle-wheel ship, an idea that was not successfully developed until the advent of steam power in the 19th Century; a theoretical gear system that produced three speeds of rotation, as in the modern automobile transmission; and a device for determining the tensile strength of wire, information essential to the engineer five centuries ago, as it is today.

Leonardo was fascinated with the possibility of human flight, and devised many schemes for flying, including ornithoters — whose principle support and propulsion comes from flapping wings. A model of an ornithoter in the show follows an early design calling for a lattice-like wooden framework, two movable wings, a series of ropes and pulleys and a windlass. This was to be operated by the flyer, lying prine in the framework.

Although Leonardo considered war "a bestial madness," he was one of the leading military engineers of his time, and made innumerable sketches for fortifications and weapons. Models in the show include an armored tank, in which he foresaw a type of vehicle not extensively used until World War I, and a scaling ladder that resembles modern fire-fighting apparatus, but which Leonardo designed for storming the walls of an enemy fortress.

Nests in tree

One bird that nests in trees is the mourning dove. They like bare fields where they can look for waste grain and weed seeds. They eat grit or coarse sand, too.

When replacement parts for the Model T Ford went on the market in the early '20s, a muffler cost just 25 cents and a brand new fender $2.50.

San Gabriel Valley Symphony

Orchestra in first concert

By RALPH PIERCE

Anyone who went to Friday's concert of the San Gabriel Valley Symphony in the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium expecting to hear just another community orchestra would have received a real surprise. This group, under the able leadership of Giora Bernstein, plays with a truly professional flair and a precision which it didn't have in past seasons.

American music is really "in" this season and, after a rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner," the remainder of the first half of the evening's program consisted of "A Lincoln Portrait" by Aaron Copland. In this work the orchestra was joined by narrator John Amos who is familiar to TV viewers. Both the playing by the Orchestra and the stirring reading of the Lincoln quotations by Amos provided a very moving experience, and this listener can't recall hearing a better performance of the typically American work.

After the intermission the evening program was concluded with a spirited reading of the Tchaikovsky Fourth Symphony. If you are one who has become tired of the melodramatic cliches of Tchaikovsky, you would still have had to admire the brilliant playing of this orchestra. In the Fourth the emphasis is more on dramatic climaxes than on some of the pathos of the last two symphonies, and the orchestra and conductor definitely met the challenge. From the opening challenge, given out by the horns and brass section, through the demanding pizzicato third movement, the orchestra played with a precision and dramatic sweep that would set a new standard for community orchestras everywhere.

Conductor Bersnstein is remembered by valley music lovers primarily for the summer music festivals at Claremont. He is currently director of orchestras and operas, and professor of music at the University of Colorado in Boulder, and he finds time to commute to the San Gabriel Valley to build and conduct this orchestra. We can only hope that he won't be lost to our area permanently.

APC plans musical

The Division of Fine Arts of Azusa Pacific College will present the Lerner-Loewe musical, "My Fair Lady," in the Turner Campus Center at 8 p.m. Nov. 19-22. Tickets are $2.

The musical, based on George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," opened on Broadway in 1956 and had a long run. It has been performed throughout the world and made into a movie starring Rex Harrison and Audrey Hepburn.

The PC cast includes Dale Blackwell, Professor Higgins; Dalene Hartman, Elisa; Mike Harrison, Col. Pickering; Kip Decker, Freddy Hill; Linda Shackleton, Mrs. Pearce, and Dick Ernst, Alfred P. Doolittle.

"My Fair Lady" will be directed by Gary Bonner and Mark Koontz. Al Clifft is musical director and Marsha Koontz did the choreography.

PIANO SOLOIST — Concert pianist David Golub will be soloist in the opening concert of the Claremont Symphony Orchestra in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 4 p.m. Sunday. George Denes conducts. Admission is free.

Golub to solo with orchestra

The Claremont Symphony Orchestra, conducted by founder-director George Denes, will open its 1975-76 season with a concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The featured artist will be David Golub, pianist. He will perform the Piano Concerto No. 4 in G Major by Beethoven. Golub, who is on the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music in New York, has won many national and international prizes in piano competitions.

He has also performed extensively throughout the United States and at some of the more prestigious music festivals in Europe. Golub is also the accompanist for cellist Leonard Rose.

The program will also include the Overture to "Beatrice and Benedict" by Berlioz and Robert Schumann's Symphony No. 4 in D Minor.

The Jimmy Durante Crippled Children's dinner is scheduled at the Eagles' Hall, 954 W. Mission Blvd., Pomona, Saturday at 7 p.m.

Honored guest will be Bob Romano, Los Angeles, grand aerie coordinator, and Mrs. Romano. Mrs. Frank Durham, chairman, will present to him a donation for the charity fund.

Special entertainment will be presented by the club's own "Jimmy Durante" and his "Cha-Cha-Chas." Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hensley are in charge of entertainment and decorations.

Assisting with plans are Mrs. Eve Martinez, Mrs. Talmadge Smith, Mrs. Dean Payne, Mrs. John Huver, Donny McKeon and Darrell Martinez. Master of ceremonies will be Frank Durham.

Mrs. Harry Williamson is in charge of ticket sales.

Welcoming guests between 6 and 7 p.m. will be Mr. and Mrs. George Burmeister and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durham.

First Baptist Church setting for nuptials

Miss Elizabeth Peggy Ontiveros of Pomona and Larry W. Cole of Pomona were married recently in the First Baptist Church in Pomona.

MRS. LARRY COLE

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ontiveros of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole, Sr., were married in an evening ceremony read by the Rev. Edward Cole.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bianca Brigde of Montclair, Carolyn Welch of Pomona and Michel Nelson of Pomona.

Standing as best man was Randy Nelson of Pomona.

Ushers were John Hoch of Pomona and Enrique Mora of Ontario.

Flower girl was Tiffany Cole of Pomona and ring bearer was Kirk Welch of Montclair.

Following the rite, a reception was held on the patio of the church. When the couple returns from a wedding trip to Spain, the newlyweds will establish a home in Pomona.

'Turkey Trot' Ball planned by BPW

The La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring a "Turkey Trot Ball" Friday beginning at 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served at 11 p.m.

The dance will be held at the Stanley Plummer Building in San Dimas.

The proceeds will be divided between the Bicentennial committees of each city. People serving on the committee are: Mmes. Valda Woods, Dorothy Hawk, Adeline Vacosky and Kris Woods.

Valley Writer's schedule contest

The Pomona Valley Writer's Club will meet in the Ontario Public Library Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. Open contests will be in the nonfiction and juvenile categories.

At the October meeting an election of candidates for offices was held. The new officers will be announced and seated at the November meeting.

In October, Joan Copeland won her third certificate of merit in fiction for her entry, "The Parallel." She will be presented a trophy at the next meeting. In addition to Mrs. Copeland, other fiction entries were: "Please Pass the Salt," by June Fifield: "The Heirs," by Kit Vargo; "Gone to the Dogs," by John Higgins; and, "I Must Stay on the Mountain" by Florence Swanson.

June Fifield won the poetry contest for her entry, "Maine Quaternion." Other poetry entries were "Fall Rain" by Florence Lovgren; "There Will Come a Time" by David Coffman; "Haiku Poems" by Margaret King; "The Country Store" by Wella Kabetska; "The Elusive Goldfish" by Jo Quici: "Traveling" by Coleer Riggs; and, "Response" by Don Higgins.

Members are reminded to submit manuscripts for judging in the Christmas contest by November 18. Anyone interested in creative writing is invited. Further information about the club is available by calling the library.

Club sets meeting this week

The Wednesday Afternoon Club of San Dimas will meet this week at the home of Mrs. E. J. Vaniman, 306 Roughrider Ave., La Verne, at 1 p.m.

Mrs. J. E. Carruthers, Mrs. B. R. Day and Mrs. D. F. Hooper are in charge of supervising a special game social. Each member will bring a plant or white elephant gift to the meeting.

Assisting Mrs. Vaniman with the luncheon will be Mmes. Felix Giroux, Stanley Plummer, Alfred Batchelor and Keith Brogan.

The members recently voted donations to the San Dimas Christmas Basket fund and to the Recording for the Blind.

Festival charted this week

Fall Festival, a Christmas bazaar, will be held in the social hall of the Chino United Methodist Church on Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. A luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30.

Cochairmen of the event are Mrs. Jack Sawyer and Mrs. La Forrest Nyberg. Those in charge of the various booths are: Mrs. Fred Radford and Mrs. Elisabeth Shugart, plants; Mrs. Otto Smith and Mrs. Roland Wood, food; Mrs. Ray Case and Miss Florence Butterfield, fancy work; Mrs. Reuben Holland and Mrs. Gertrude Hollensbe, jewelry; Mrs. Clifford Hendon and Miss Gertrude Case, white elephants; Mrs. Blaine Van Dusen and Mrs. Ted Dunn, Christmas cards, gift wrap and novelties. Those working on the luncheon are Mmes. David Waters, Ed Czeschin, Carl Schuler, Francis Wilson and Dick Ludden.

La Leche League to meet

Mt. Baldy View Chapter of La Leche League will hold three meetings during the month of November. The first meeting will be held in Alta Loma on Wednesday. The second meeting will be held on Thursday evening in Claremont and the third meeting will be held in San Dimas on the evening of Nov. 20.

La Leche League is a nonprofit, nonsectarian organization founded in 1956 for the purpose of offering encouragement, information and support to those women who wish to breastfeed their babies and in so doing, to foster good mothering through breastfeeding.

All interested women and babies are welcome. For the meeting location please call 623-2346 or 593-3321.

Auxiliary recently formed

The Women's Auxiliary of the La Verne Fire Department was recently formed. The group meets on the first Wednesday of each month.

The group plans a number of fund-raising events to help defray the cost of Christmas candy passed out annualy by the firemen to each child within the city. Further contributions will be made to help pay for the 1930 Seagraves fire engine recently purchased by the La Verne Fire Department Reserves.

Officers of the group are: Mmes. William Lapp, president; Santo Morello, vice president; Ronald Sillo, secretary; and Gerald Roach, treasurer.

Joyce Brothers

Holdings reveal story

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife constantly bugs me about the cost of gasoline and the kind of car I drive. She keeps telling me that, because of the gas shortage, if I were patriotic, I'd get one of the new small cars. Well, I am patrotic and I don't want a small car. I'd rather pay more to drive my big one even though it eats gas. I tell my wife if she's so eager to save money she can buy fewer clothes. This really gets her because she spends a fortune on expensive clothes, which I guess is okay since she spends the money she earns. We both have good jobs, thank God, so money isn't really a problem.

What bugs me though is that she intimates that my choice of car has something to do with my personality. I don't think it does. Am I kidding myself or is she right? — LW.

Dear L.W.: She's probably right, for almost any choice we make in life reflects some aspect of our personality. The fact that she chooses to spend money on very expensive clothes tells a great deal about her. How we spend money, whether for travel, buying paintings, books, coats, clothing or building new homes reveals our interests and often our insecurities.

Clothing and automobiles are symbols as well as objects. A car, especially in our society, is a sign of adulthood. To many men, it is an extension of themselves and a powerful symbol of masculinity and virility. This, incidentally, is one of the reasons teen-aged boys are usually rather dangerous, erratic drivers, whereas girls of the same age have a relatively low accident rate.

The more immature the male, the more his sexuality is apt to be linked to the power of engines and machines in general, and especailly to cars. To most adolescents, the car is more than just a means of transportation, it is a symbol of maleness, and there is, in their minds, a link between horsepower and sexual prowess. They may also equate driving with sexual function which leads to the assumption that the bigger the car, the better. Many automobile manufacturers have clung to this view until very recently.

To a certain extent, our cars express our image of ourselves. Often, those who are most insecure and the most uncertain of their own identity and self-worth, feel the need to drive the newest, most expensive car on the block. In this way, they may feel they're telling the neighbors that they make a great deal of money and that they are very valuable to their bosses.

According to psychiatrist Jean Rosenbaum, the meek little man who sees himself as he is will buy and drive a small car. However, if he sees himself as a person of power or has fantasies and daydreams in which he's a leader, he'll buy a big car, even if it's an economic burden. The timid individual wants an automobile that won't dominate him.

If your wife's comments really bother you, you might let her know that her passion for expensive clothes indicates that she may be inclined to see herself only as a sex object — something to be dressed and decorated. She, too, may be insecure and may be using her wardrobe to impress others with her affluence. Underneath all that expensive fabric, your wife may suffer from a very real anxiety that she herself isn't of much value. You can help her to value herself as a human being.

Continental breakfast scheduled

The Women's Fellowship of the Lincoln Ave., Community Reformed Church will meet at 10 a.m., Wednesday in the fellowship hall of the church. A continental breakfast will be served at 9:30 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Don Wight of Ontario. He will give a talk on "Stoned from the Bible." Slides will be used to illustrate his talk along with many stones on display.

Mrs. Andrew Vander Zwag will present the devotions. Hostesses are Mrs. Grant Griffin and Mrs. Tony Hamming.

Honor valley women

The Altrusa Club of Covina-West Covina will hold its annual scholarship-membership brunch Saturday at the West Covina home of Mrs. Kay Ragan, president.

Dr. Marianne Soor-Melka, chairman of the Altrusa scholarship commitee, will introduce the recipients of the current scholarships. They are Mrs. Flora Hite, Upland, who was selected from Cal Poly Pomona and Mrs. Maureen Snively, Pomona, who attends Mt. San Antonio College. Each will explain their goals. The scholarships are presented annually to two deserving mature women to improve their skills or to continue their education as they prepare to enter or re-enter the labor market.

Mrs. Marlene Grant, manager and vice president of a local savings and loan company, will be initiated to the club during the day.

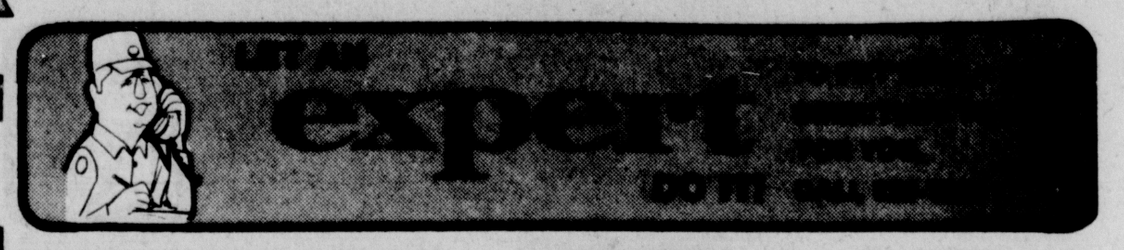

Does Lindora think Losing Weight is easy?
It is not a simple task for a patient to reach and maintain "lean weight" for life. First the patient must have an honest desire to cure his problem then accept professional guidance from trained Medical Doctors.
Lindora's unique 10-week treatment and training program will teach patients how to reach and maintain their "lean weight" for life. A safe and practical plan, with proper nutritional diet, and continual emotional support. New audio and sub-liminal visual aids are used to motivate the patient. The entire program is under the strict supervision of Medical Doctors, specialists in Bariatric Medicine.
Lindora Clinics are owned and administered by Medical Doctors that restrict their practice to Bariatrics. ALL Clinic Personnel are licensed by the State of California
